I understand that the provision of images is for the stated purposes only. Specific permission for additional publication or further reproduction should be sought in writing.

All images must be credited to the University of Sydney Archives.

To ensure that items can be found by other researchers, include the reference number of the item that is reproduced.

The University Archives does not hold the copyright in many of its collections. In such cases you must request clearance from the copyright holder and be able to present written evidence of this clearance to the Archives before a copy of the item can be provided. Copyright holders may charge reproduction fees.
