

We invite you to attend
the launch of

CarriageWorks' Kitchen Garden Project

Stage 2

It's back! CarriageWorks presents the second stage of our immensely popular Kitchen Garden Project.

CarriageWorks' Kitchen Garden Project is a series of free community activities and workshops based on the notion of creative sustainability.

Under the guidance of sustainability expert and coach, Michael Mobbs, join us in building an organic kitchen garden from scratch. Whether you're into organic home grown vegies or are interested in saving on grocery bills, these workshops will teach you the principles of environmentally friendly 'no-dig' gardening, so that you can then apply the skills to your own urban space.

To find out more, first attend the Free Information Expo, where you will be able to access a wide variety of organisations, practitioners and sustainable businesses, engage with inspiring speakers, listen to some great music and enjoy a drink with friends. Then join the evolving workshops including: construction of planter boxes; composting; worm farms; soil prep; seeds and germination; planting and plant care and finally, harvest.

We invite you to attend the Kitchen Garden Launch Expo

The launch expo includes an info session on the project, a wide variety of guest speakers and a series of information stalls where you can ask questions, see demonstrations and engage with some of Sydney's most passionate sustainability experts, gardeners and eco business leaders.

Speakers include; Michael Mobbs (sustainability expert, author and coach), Aaron Sorensen (community and school garden catalyst and educator), Robyn Williamson (urban horticulturist and permaculture designer), Annie Walker (Community Gardens Coordinator, City of Sydney)

Saturday February 2010, 1pm – 4pm Free Entry
