Scales of Economy
History Workshop
University of Sydney
July 28-29, 2016

Organized by the Laureate Research Program in International History, University of Sydney, this workshop takes its cue from the recent resurgence of interest in the history of economics and capitalism, and the problem of global inequality. Its focus is the historical investigation of spaces in which economic cultures arise and which shape economic thought, the transmission of culture in terms of consumption, global trade and the facilitation of the circulation of ideas and topical information. The larger context of this project is the interrogation of the history of globalisation. In particular we are inviting papers that focus on:

- The significance of the concept of world economy;
- From International to global economic governance;
- Economic internationalism;
- The Global and the Local;
- The national to the international;
- Commerce and the circulation of ideas;
- Economic Life;
- Economic Man;
- Global economy and cultural exchange;
- New histories of capitalism.

Co-organizers: Sophie Loy-Wilson, Jamie Martin, Glenda Sluga and Garritt Van Dyk (University of Sydney).

If you are interested in presenting or participating in our workshop, with an edited volume in view, please forward an abstract of 300-600 words, and a brief cv/bio, to Dr. Martin King, martin.king@sydney.edu.au by Monday 30 November, 2015.
