

exceed with EXEC ED

The Faculty is responding to the current economic climate by joining forces with The Kellogg School of Management to host a cutting edge residential program in March 2009 which addresses key issues in this challenging environment

THE FACULTY OF Economics and Business is collaborating with one of the world's most prestigious business schools – The Kellogg School of Management to present an Executive Education program that's designed to help prepare participants for the current financial challenges in the global economy.

The Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University is recognised globally as a pioneer in management education and its world-renowned research brings a multi-disciplinary perspective to real world challenges.

Internationally recognised finance expert Dr Belverd E. Needles Jr from DePaul University in the US, joins Dr Marian Powers, from the Kellogg School of Management and the University of Sydney's own Professor Tyrone Carlin to present a dynamic three day residential program titled Strategic Financial Risk Management in a Challenging Environment.

The program incorporates the latest research from the best companies in the world, and focuses on the eleven principles and three foundations of a trademarked program called Return Driven Strategy™.

The Faculty's Director of Management Education Programs, Professor Chris Styles says this hands-on, case-based program is appropriate for mid-to upper-level managers, division heads, and other managers of private and public companies who are being groomed for these positions.

"In our current economic environment, managing financial risk and cash flow is critical and this course has been designed to fill an important need in the market place."

A discount is available for University of Sydney alumni wishing to do this course.

For further information about the course and how to apply, please contact: Program Coordinator, Management Education Office. Phone: +61 2 9036 6456 or email: execed@econ.usyd.edu.au or visit: www.econ.usyd.edu.au/execed making beautiful music together

THE FINANCIAL SUPPORT of the Faculty of Economics and Business has enabled two talented music ensembles from the Sydney Conservatorium of Music to perform at University events in China and Hong Kong.

Throughout 2008, the Faculty has sponsored nine members of the Conservatorium brass quintet and string quartet to attend a number of international University functions including formal dinners, alumni receptions and graduation ceremonies.

A highlight of the recent 'University of Sydney Day' at Fudan University, in Shanghai was the short performance by the Conservatorium ensembles alongside musicians from the Fudan University Orchestra Troupe.

The musicians were Thomas Chawner (viola), Daniel Kowalik (violin), Karol Kowalik (cello), Sylwia Kowalik (violin), Colin Grisdale (trumpet), Katrina Hermann (French horn), Roslyn Jorgensen (trombone), Duncan Spry (tuba) and Simon Wolnizer (trumpet).

