

Graduate Certificate in Commerce – Course Structure and Progression for 2011 Commencing Students

Course requirements

To be awarded the Graduate Certificate in Commerce, students must successfully complete a total of four units of study (24 credit points), comprising:

- four foundational units of study (24 credit points)

Foundational units of study

Students select four units (24 credit points) from the following options.

All students must enrol in the foundational unit of study ECOF5010.

- ECOF5010 Academic and Professional Communication *
- ACCT5001 Accounting Principles
- CLAW5001 Legal Environment of Business
- ECON5000 Economics for Commerce * OR ECON5001 Microeconomic Theory
- ECMT5001 Principles of Econometrics
- FINC5001 Capital Markets and Corporate Finance
- IBUS5001 Strategy, Innovation and Global Business
- INFS5001 Project Management
- MKTG5001 Marketing Principles
- QBUS5001 Quantitative Methods for Business (new unit for 2012)
- TPTM5001 Logistics and Supply Chain Management
- WORK5003 Management and Organisations

\ These units are no longer offered from 2012.*

Please Note: The information set out here is for students commencing their Graduate Certificate in Commerce degree in 2012. Continuing students should follow the degree structure outlined in the Handbook for the year they commenced their degree.

Progression guide

The following table shows an example degree progression for a student enrolled in the Graduate Certificate of Commerce on a full-time basis undertaking four units of study per semester.

Year / Semester	Units of study				Total credit points
First Semester	foundational	foundational	foundational	ECOF5010*	24

\ Students who receive a waiver for the requirement to complete ECOF5010 would complete an alternative unit (foundational or advanced) in this example.*

Please Note: The information listed in this program of study example is meant as a guide only. Students should always check the requirements for individual units of study before enrolling. Students are usually able to complete the units of study for their degree in different sequences to that listed above (including studying in Summer or Winter School sessions). You are advised to plan their degree based upon your individual needs and to contact the Student Information Office if you need any assistance in planning your progression in your degree.