The Institute of Transport and Logistics Studies (ITLS) is a National Key Centre of Excellence recognised by the Australian Federal Government and is ranked amongst the top five institutes in the world in transportation, logistics and supply chain management research and education. It is ranked under the Excellence in Research Australia (ERA) in the top category (=5) described as ‘well above world standard’. It is home to some of Australia’s, and the world’s, leading academics in transportation, logistics and supply chain management. ITLS enjoys frequent visits from internationally renowned scholars and practitioners who teach in the graduate programs and work on collaborative research projects. In addition to a strong industry program (including bus and coach operator accreditation) and executive courses, ITLS offers a fully integrated and articulated coursework and research program for graduates and non-graduates with industry experience. ITLS alumni serve in senior management and advisory positions, within Australia and internationally, for prestigious organisations and as senior executives in national and state governments.

ITLS enjoys a high level of research success both in terms of winning highly competitive grant and contract funding from government and industry and in its influence on policy and practice by the dissemination of research outcomes through: publication in prestige international journals and an extensive working paper series; presentations and workshops at global conferences; active engagement with industry and government; and through a highly successful leadership and policy seminar series which draws speakers of renown from around the world to talk about their latest cutting edge research and attracts audiences from academia, industry and government. ITLS has extensive links to leading transport, logistics and supply chain institutes around the world and in Australia including quality partnerships that have been forged with government and industry. The Board of Advice actively supports the continued development and utilisation of ITLS as a centre of excellence adding value to the community. The academic and commercial membership of the Board gives a broad network for the sharing of expertise and experience.

The Founder and Director of ITLS-Sydney is Professor David Hensher who is regarded as one of Australia’s most eminent transport academics and someone in high demand as an adviser to industry and government.
