

Master of Economics majors (specialisations)

The following majors (specialisations) are only available to students enrolled in the Master of Economics. The information below is intended for continuing students enrolled in the Master of Economics (FC050) when it was offered by the Faculty of Economics and Business (University of Sydney Business School) – students who commenced prior to 2011.

Econometrics

Requirements for the specialisation

To obtain an Econometrics specialisation, students must complete at least three units of study, comprising:

- (i) one compulsory unit of study (six credit points):
 - ECMT6002 Econometric Applications
- (ii) at least two of the following elective units of study (12 credit points):
 - ECMT6003 Applied Business Forecasting
 - *ECMT6005 Applied Discrete Choice Modelling **
 - ECMT6006 Applied Financial Econometrics
 - ECMT6007 Panel Data Econometrics / Analysis of Panel Data
 - ECMT6008 Business Operations Analysis OR QBUS6310 Business Operations Analysis
 - *ECMT6030 Forecasting for Economics and Business **
 - ECMT6510 Management Decision Making OR QBUS6320 Management Decision Making
 - *ECMT6901 Econometric Modelling **

* These units are not offered for 2012.

Please Note: From 2012, all ECMT units will be offered through the School of Economics in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences. For details these units of study, please refer to the University of Sydney's Online unit of study handbook.

Economics

Requirements for the specialisation

To obtain an Economics specialisation, students must complete at least three units of study (18 credit points), comprising:

- (i) two compulsory units of study (12 credit points):
 - ECON6001 Microeconomic Analysis 1
 - ECON6002 Macroeconomic Analysis 1
- (ii) at least one of the following elective units of study (six credit points):
 - ECON6006 Market Structure and Strategic Behaviour
 - ECON6008 International Money and Finance
 - ECON6009 Economics of the Labour Market
 - ECON6010 Public Economics

- ECON6016 Trade and Development
- ECON6018 Environmental Economics
- ECON6021 Financial Economics
- ECON6023 International Trade
- ECON6024 Private Equity
- ECON6025 Strategic Decision Making
- ECON6026 Strategic Business Relationships
- ECON6027 Experimental Economics
- ECON6101 Special Topic in Economics
- ECON6901 Microeconomic Analysis 2
- ECON6902 Macroeconomic Analysis 2

Please Note: From 2011, all ECON units will be offered through the School of Economics in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences. For details these units of study, please refer to the University of Sydney's Online unit of study handbook.

Financial Economics

Requirements for the specialisation

To obtain a Financial Economics specialisation, students must complete at least three units of study (18 credit points), comprising:

- (i) one additional prerequisite unit of study for the specialisation (six credit points):
- FINC5001 Capital Markets and Corporate Finance

Note. The unit of study FINC5001 does not count towards the specialisation but is the prerequisite unit of study for most of the 'FINC' 6000-level units of study in this specialisation.

- (ii) two compulsory units of study (12 credit points):

- ECMT6006 Applied Financial Econometrics
- ECON6021 Financial Economics

- (iii) at least one of the following elective units of study (six credit points):

- ECON6008 International Money and Finance
- FINC6000 Quantitative Finance
- FINC6001 Intermediate Corporate Finance
- FINC6003 Broking and Market Making
- FINC6005 Advanced Asset Pricing
- FINC6007 Financial Strategy
- FINC6009 Portfolio Theory and its Applications
- FINC6010 Derivative Securities
- FINC6013 International Business Finance
- FINC6014 Fixed Income Securities
- FINC6015 Global Trading
- FINC6016 Financial Instruments and Markets
- FINC6017 Mergers and Acquisitions

- FINC6019 Financial Modelling
- FINC6021 Corporate Valuation
- FINC6022 Behavioural Finance
- FINC6023 Financial Risk Management

Please Note: From 2011, all ECON units will be offered through the School of Economics in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences. For details these units of study, please refer to the University of Sydney's Online unit of study handbook.