8. RECOMMENDATIONS

Further research into the social value of the University might include:

- further investigating the views of nearby residents about aspects of the University grounds which might have social value. This might include contacting resident action or other resident groups for adjacent suburbs;
- examining the study of Victoria Park for evidence of social value;
- a review of the images in the University art collection to ascertain their subject matter, and establish whether there is evidence of community valuing of particular components of the University;
- obtaining details of the nature and extent of portrayals of the University in publications, and their distribution; and
- obtaining details of the nature, locations and frequency of event/function usage of the University.
9. BIBLIOGRAPHY

Note: See also the Bibliography following the Overview History at Appendix A of this report.

DPWS Heritage Design Services and Otto Cserhalmi & Partners 2000, ‘University of Sydney Section 170 Register’.

South Sydney Heritage Society 199-, ‘Victoria Park: corner of Parramatta Road and City Road’, South Sydney Heritage Society.

