Intercultural Languages Education
One-Day Workshop

DATE
Friday 21 November 2008 - 9.00am to 4.00pm

LOCATION
Education Building, Manning Road, The University of Sydney, Camperdown

PRESENTER
Dr Lesley Harbon, Senior Lecturer in Languages Education in the Faculty of Education and Social Work, The University of Sydney

PROGRAMME OVERVIEW
Notions of intercultural competence are now underpinning many language syllabuses throughout Australia's education systems. In a mix of both lecture-style and group-work sessions, teachers will be lead to develop and make explicit their new understandings about the teaching of culture, language and the meaning of intercultural for them and their students.

The workshop will begin by teachers examining key concepts of interculturality and the “third space”. Teachers will then engage with understandings of the types of productive pedagogies required to allow the development of intercultural competence in school language learners.

Teachers will have a chance to examine and analyse language learning materials in order to explore what types of materials exist that can best aid learners achieve intercultural competence. Teachers should be prepared to bring in examples from their own teaching resource set.
