“ADHD” and the Role of Education

A research symposium sponsored by the Learning & Development in Children and Youth Research Network in The Faculty of Education and Social Work

Date: Tuesday July 22nd, 8.30am-1.30pm (with refreshments).
Location: Rm 351, Level 3, Building A35, The Faculty of Education and Social Work, Manning Road, The University of Sydney

Program Outline

8.30-8.45 Welcome by Professor Derrick Armstrong
Dean, Faculty of Education and Social Work

8.45-9.15 Teacher education under threat: “expertism” and back-door tactics
Dr Linda Graham and Professor Derrick Armstrong – The University of Sydney

9.15-9.45 The New Outsiders: ADHD and Disadvantage
Dr Valerie Harwood – University of Wollongong

9.45-10.15 ADHD, mothers and the politics of school recognition
Dr Lorelei Carpenter and Dr Helena Austin – Griffith University

10.15 -10.45 MORNING TEA

10.45-11.15 Engaging pedagogies: from psycho-medical deficits to ‘virtual schoolbags’
Dr Brenton Prosser – University of South Australia

11.15-11.45 Drawing on the Research Evidence to Empower Teachers
Dr Brian Kean – Southern Cross University

11.45-12.15 Preparing to teach in diverse classrooms: views of pre-service teachers
Associate Professor David Evans, Dr Ilektra Spandagou and Mrs Cathy Little
The University of Sydney

12.30-1.30 LUNCH
Poster presentations by research students

For more information, please contact Dr Linda Graham at l.graham@edfac.usyd.edu.au