

The George Institute for International Health, China Your office in Beijing

The George Institute, China

The George Institute for International Health seeks to improve global health through undertaking high quality research, and applying this research to health policy and practice. The institute is a legally independent, not-for-profit institution affiliated with the University of Sydney.

The George Institute has an office in Beijing where its China-related projects are based.

Due to the institute's relationship with the university, an arrangement has been made to provide office space to staff from the University's Faculties of Health when they are in Beijing.
