SYDNEY

Celebrating our high achievers
in health

Health Sciences Awards ceremony

Thursday 7 June 2018

Forest Stewardship Council (FSC®) is a globally recognised certification overseeing all fibre sourcing standards. This provides guarantees for the consumer that products are made of woodchips from well-managed forests and other controlled sources with strict environmental, economical and social standards.

We acknowledge the tradition of custodianship and law of the Country on which the University of Sydney campuses stand. We pay our respects to those who have cared and continue to care for Country.

Dean's welcome

I warmly welcome you to the Faculty of Health Sciences Awards night. Tonight we celebrate the achievements of our students, alumni and staff and recognise the inspired teaching and research behind these achievements.

We also acknowledge the generosity of all the organisations, individuals and families who sponsored many of the awards.

Our faculty is a world leader in health science research and education. We are known for excellence, and we continue to make many outstanding contributions to teaching the next generation of leaders in health. Our high-impact research is acknowledged and translated into practice and policy, nationally and internationally. We strive to achieve the best possible health outcomes for the whole community and put patients at the centre of everything we do.

Our guest speaker, Dr Kylie Gwynne, is one example of the kind of leadership, courage, and innovation for which the faculty is known. We are proud to recognise such achievements in our students, alumni, teachers and researchers.

Thank you for sharing this memorable night with us. To all our winners, my heartfelt congratulations! You are our future leaders shaping health and truly deserving of this honour.

Professor Kathryn Refshaug
OAM FAHMS
Dean, Faculty of Health Sciences

About our speaker

Dr Kylie Gwynne

Master of Human Services Griffith 2008

PhD (Aboriginal Health) Sydney 2017

We are honoured
to welcome Dr Kylie Gwynne as our speaker tonight.

Dr Kylie Gwynne is the Executive Officer of Paediatrico, a cooperative joint venture between Sydney Children's Hospitals Network, the Children's Cancer Institute, and the Children's Medical Research Institute. Paediatrico was established to coordinate and integrate paediatric research in Sydney and potentially New South Wales.

Kylie is also an Adjunct Associate Professor at Sydney Medical School where she leads the research program for the Poche Centre for Indigenous Health. Her research focuses on the co-design and delivery of culturally safe, timely and relevant healthcare services with Aboriginal people to improve effectiveness, efficiency and outcomes.

Since 2012, she has received $6.17m in funding to co-design, deliver and evaluate services with Aboriginal people and includes new approaches to oral health, allied health and cardiovascular disease.

Kylie's work with the Poche Centre for Indigenous Health is shaping policy in NSW in the areas of rural and remote dentistry, graduate training and supervision, local workforce development, and new models of care.

Welcome to our community

When you graduate from the University of Sydney, you join a community of more than 320,000 alumni worldwide. It's a lifelong partnership that connects you to invaluable personal and professional networks.

We also offer an exciting range of programs and benefits.

- Keep up to date with your alma mater through Sydney Alumni Magazine (SAM), delivered to your door twice a year.
sydney.edu.au/alumni/sam
- The monthly digital newsletter, SAM Extra, is filled with research news and event information.
- Receive invitations to exclusive alumni events throughout the year that allow you to catch up with fellow graduates, expand your networks and relive University memories.
- Interested in a reunion? We can help you organise class reunions and other alumni functions.
- Contribute your time, skills and expertise to one of the volunteer programs to help the University community of students, staff and fellow alumni.
- Receive free membership of the University of Sydney Library in your first year as a graduate, and discounted membership thereafter.
