Then entered for Mrs. Prince's An Historical and Moral Inquiry into the Progress of the French Revolution, and its Effect in Europe.
By Henry Fielding.

Then entered for Mrs. Stella's An Anatomical Description of the Human Gravid Uterus and its Embryos.
By the late Mr. William Hunter. Encyclopaedia Extraordinary to the Professor of Anatomy in the College of Physicians in London, and Fellow of the Royal Society.

Two plates from Dr. John Burton's An Essay towards a Complete New System of Midwifery, 1750. Etchings. Published 1750.

Then entered for the boy.
A country carpenter's companion, fitted with a few plans & rules in the age of reason, in a letter from Will. Ship, Carpenter, or some other to Thomas Rivington.
Mr. Rivington in Queen.