ABOUT THE SERIES

The Australian Centre for Climate and Environmental Law (ACCEL) presents its annual seminar series in April and May 2012. In this year's series, ACCEL members will discuss their research for the recently published third edition of Environmental and Planning Law in NSW (Federation Press: 2012). The seminars will include analysis of the key developments in environmental law – including the Commonwealth's Clean Energy Future Package and the Durban Climate Change Conference that was held in November and December 2011. Our presenters will also discuss important changes to NSW laws such as the demise of Pt3A of the NSW planning legislation that facilitated approval of developments by Ministers and significant recent changes to pollution laws.

ACCEL's annual seminar will appeal to a wide audience and no formal qualifications are required for enrolment. Participants who attend a minimum of five (5) seminars in the series will be issued with a certificate of attendance.
