

Studying Law on Exchange

Law students have a range of exchange options available both at the faculty level and at University-wide exchange partners. Law students, however, are not permitted to go on exchange unless they are in the last year of their undergraduate law degree. Law students cannot satisfy any of the compulsory requirements of the LLB while on exchange, including the Jurisprudence requirement. Law students are only permitted to be on exchange for one semester and can only undertake units of study that count towards their electives.

Law Faculty-Specific Exchange Destinations

The University of Sydney Law School offers a wide variety of Law-specific exchange agreements throughout the world. These Law-specific exchange agreements are administered by the Law School with separate application and selection procedures from the International Office. These programs are open to undergraduate Law students only. There is only one deadline per year for study in both semesters of the following calendar year. For further information regarding these exchange destinations, please contact the Law School. (<http://www.law.usyd.edu.au/cstudent/undergrad/exchange.shtml>)

University-wide Exchange Destinations open to Law students

Law students are also welcome to apply for places at certain University-wide exchange destinations that have agreed to accept Law students. However, students who have already been offered a faculty-specific exchange place will not be considered for a University-wide exchange destination, unless they have confirmed in writing that they have withdrawn from the faculty-specific exchange nomination.

A list of available Law destinations for the upcoming deadline is below. These agreements are administered by the International Office. Courses are offered primarily in English, however, if you are fluent in the host language, you may be permitted to access courses in this language also. Most of these destinations are only open at undergraduate level (LLB).

Law students must compete with other Law and non-Law students for available places. Competition for most of the destinations listed below is high and applicants must be flexible and select five exchange preferences.

As a result of competition for places, successful Law applicants seeking a University-wide exchange placement are normally distributed across all available destinations, as most host universities are only able to take one or two applicants in this discipline.

Austria	Universitat Wien (www.univie.ac.at/)
Canada	University of Ottawa (www.uottawa.ca)
.....	University of Toronto (www.utoronto.ca)
Denmark	Aarhus Universitet (www.aarhus.dk)
.....	Kobenhavn Universitet (www.ku.dk/english)
Finland	University of Helsinki (www.helsinki.fi)
Germany	Universität zu Köln (www.uni-koeln.de)
Israel	Tel Aviv University (www.law.tau.ac.il)
New Zealand	University of Auckland (www.auckland.ac.nz)
Norway	Universitetet i Bergen (uib.no/info/english/)
Norway	Universitetet i Oslo (www.uio.no/english)
Sweden	Lunds Universitet (www.lu.se/intsek)
.....	Uppsala Universitet (www.inter.uadm.uu.se)
The Netherlands	Universiteit Leiden (www.leiden.edu)
.....	Rijksuniversiteit Groningen (www.rug.nl)
United Kingdom	University of Glasgow (www.gla.ac.uk)
.....	University of Leeds (www.leeds.ac.uk)
.....	University of Manchester (www.manchester.ac.uk)
.....	University of Stirling (www.stir.ac.uk)

There may also be University-wide destinations available teaching Law in languages other than English, however, you will normally be required to demonstrate near native fluency in the language to participate on these exchanges. Additional program specific criteria may apply.

Before submitting an application, you are advised to attend relevant information sessions and discuss your options with an Exchange Adviser.

For more information contact:

Study Abroad & Exchange Programs Unit • International Office • Services Building G12 •
 Corner of Codrington and Abercrombie Streets • Ground Floor (enter from Codrington Street)
 Phone: +61 2 9351 3699 • Fax: +61 2 9351 2795 • Email: exchange@io.usyd.edu.au
 Web: www.usyd.edu.au/studentexchange

Information subject to change (UPDATED 04/2008)*