When
FRIDAY 14 & SATURDAY 15 OCTOBER

Friday 14 October
9am – 6pm
Registration and refreshments: 8.30am
Cocktail reception: 6-7pm
Dinner: 7-9pm

Saturday 15 October
9am – 5.30pm

Where
Sydney Law School
New Law Building (F10)
Eastern Avenue
University of Sydney

Conference registration
Early bird: $300 (until 19 Aug)
Full fee: $350 (after 19 Aug)
Full time student: $50
Dinner: $70 (optional)

To register visit sydney.edu.au/law/events
T +61 2 9351 0429

About the conference
Traditionally, legitimacy has been associated exclusively with states. But are states actually legitimate? And why should questions of legitimacy be about only them?

This Julius Stone Institute of Jurisprudence conference focuses on these two questions. It will examine both critiques and defences of the legitimacy of the state, and will consider assumptions about the nature of authority that inform the usual focus of discussions of legitimacy on the state. Finally, the conference will enquire into the legitimacy of supranational institutions and law beyond the state.

These questions will be examined in papers by eleven distinguished academics. Each paper will be introduced and discussed by an expert commentator, to whom the author will have an opportunity to respond, before being discussed by all participants.

Authors and commentators

Authors
- Philip Pettit
  L.S. Rockefeller University Professor of Politics and Human Values, Princeton University, and Distinguished University Professor of Philosophy, Australian National University.
- Joseph Raz
  Professor, Columbia University, and Research Professor, King’s College London.
- Andreas Føllesdal, University of Oslo
- Martin Krygier, UNSW
- Mattias Kumm, NYU
- Dr Cormac Mac Amhlaigh, University of Edinburgh
- Fabienne Peter, University of Warwick
- Jiří Přibáň, Cardiff University
- Nicole Roughan, National University of Singapore
- Wojciech Sadurski, University of Sydney
- Paul Weithman, University of Notre Dame

Commentators