The Nepean Medical Research Fund, Isobel Corin Travel Grants - 2015

The Isobel Corin Grant supports early career researchers, and students, who have conducted research at Sydney Medical School Nepean, and who wish to present their findings at a national or international conference.

This award must be used to cover travel expenses and the research project must be conducted at Sydney Medical School Nepean.

Abigail Marsh
“To determine whether a diet low in FODMAPS (short chain carbohydrates) reduces the symptoms associated with Irritable bowel disorders.”

Dr Juliana Andrici
“Three studies examining the epidemiology, preventive strategies and prognosis of oesophageal cancer”

Dr Maryam Nesvaderani
“C-Reactive Protein in Severe Pancreatitis”

Dr Stuart Lane
“Saying Sorry: Doctor’s experiences of open disclosure following medication error. A phenomenological study using medical simulation”

Wenyu Zhang
“A study aimed to investigate pelvic organ support and pelvic floor function by comparing nulliparous women with those delivered only by Caesarean Section.”