Diagnosing, Managing and Assessing Eating Disorders – an online course for health professionals

- Who is this course for?
- Who runs the course?
- Level of assumed knowledge
- Course overview
- Course duration
- How is the course assessed?
- Method of delivery
- Course cost
- Course dates
- Is this course accredited for CME points?
- Can this course contribute to an academic degree?
- HOW TO REGISTER
- Contacts and further information

Who is this course for?

General and mental health professionals including GPs, Psychologists, Nurses, Dietitians, Psychiatrists, Occupational Therapists, Social Workers and Counsellors

Who runs the course?

The Centre for Eating and Dieting Disorders (CEDD) as part of the Boden Institute of Obesity, Nutrition, Exercise & Eating Disorders

Level of assumed knowledge

The course is open to all interested health professionals

Course overview

This course covers:

- Understanding Eating Disorders
- Assessment
- Preparation for Treatment
- Treatment Approaches
- Management

Course duration

Each of the 5 core modules contain 3.5 hours of learning so 17.5 hours in total

How is the course assessed?
Online quizzes at the end of each module

Method of delivery

The course is delivered online and registered participants will have 3 months to complete the course

Course cost

- Australia - AUD$280
- International – AUD$280
- One Month Extension – AUD$50

Course dates

The course is self-directed learning and participants have 3 months from registration to complete it

Is this course accredited for CME points?

This course has been accredited as professional development training by the ACMHN (up to 18 points), the RACGP (2 category 2 points for each hour completed) and the Australian Counselling Association (34 points). Accreditation has been recently requested and is pending for the RCNA and ACRRM

Can this course contribute to an academic degree?

No

HOW TO REGISTER

To register click here

Contacts and further information

Blagica Miceska
E: info@CEDD.org.au

For further information download the course brochure or visit the CEDD website