National Centre for Cultural Competence

Cultural Competence: Relational Learning

We acknowledge that we are on the land of the Gadigal people of the Eora Nation. This land has always been a learning space for many Aboriginal nations, and the NCCC draws strength and guidance from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander knowledge, one of the oldest knowledge systems in the world.

Join us for a one day workshop designed to introduce you to the concept of cultural competence, and how it can be infused into your everyday life.

To support the University in its journey towards cultural competence, the National Centre for Cultural Competence (NCCC) works collaboratively to inform, inspire, and provide the resources needed to embed cultural competence across the University.

To that end, the NCCC has developed a suite of workshops designed to help participants explore the many facets of cultural competence, including:

- Cultural Competence: Sense of Self and Emotional Wellbeing
- Cultural Competence: The Fundamentals
- Cultural Competence: Foundation of Racism
- Cultural Competence: Relational Learning

What?
The workshop provides teachers (including sessional staff) with the knowledge and resources to shift their teaching approach to facilitate student learning through a relational social constructionist epistemology, encouraging learning from within and about their inter-relatedness and interdependence with each other and their broader social, political, cultural, environmental and professional contexts.

Participants will:
- Learn about relational learning and why it is important to the journey towards cultural competence
- Examine the complexities of socialisation
- Develop an understanding of, and skills for building culturally safe relational learning environments

Who is it for?
This module is suitable for academics.

Workshop | Relational Learning
---|---
Date | Thursday 9 February
Time | 9am – 12:30pm
Venue | Ivan Turner Room

For more information
National Centre for Cultural Competence |
DVC Indigenous Strategy and Services
T +61 2 93516993 | E nccc@sydney.edu.au W sydney.edu.au/nccc
The NCCC is a joint venture of the Australian Government and the University of Sydney

A living method, by Juanita Sherwood

We acknowledge that we are on the land of the Gadigal people of the Eora Nation. This land has always been a learning space for many Aboriginal nations, and the NCCC draws strength and guidance from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander knowledge, one of the oldest knowledge systems in the world.

Join us for a one day workshop designed to introduce you to the concept of cultural competence, and how it can be infused into your everyday life.

To support the University in its journey towards cultural competence, the National Centre for Cultural Competence (NCCC) works collaboratively to inform, inspire, and provide the resources needed to embed cultural competence across the University.

To that end, the NCCC has developed a suite of workshops designed to help participants explore the many facets of cultural competence, including:

- Cultural Competence: Sense of Self and Emotional Wellbeing
- Cultural Competence: The Fundamentals
- Cultural Competence: Foundation of Racism
- Cultural Competence: Relational Learning

What?
The workshop provides teachers (including sessional staff) with the knowledge and resources to shift their teaching approach to facilitate student learning through a relational social constructionist epistemology, encouraging learning from within and about their inter-relatedness and interdependence with each other and their broader social, political, cultural, environmental and professional contexts.

Participants will:
- Learn about relational learning and why it is important to the journey towards cultural competence
- Examine the complexities of socialisation
- Develop an understanding of, and skills for building culturally safe relational learning environments

Who is it for?
This module is suitable for academics.

Workshop | Relational Learning
---|---
Date | Thursday 9 February
Time | 9am – 12:30pm
Venue | Ivan Turner Room

For more information
National Centre for Cultural Competence |
DVC Indigenous Strategy and Services
T +61 2 93516993 | E nccc@sydney.edu.au W sydney.edu.au/nccc
The NCCC is a joint venture of the Australian Government and the University of Sydney