National Centre for Cultural Competence
Cultural Competence: Foundations of Racism

We acknowledge that we are on the land of the Gadigal people of the Eora Nation. This land has always been a learning space for many Aboriginal nations, and the NCCC draws strength and guidance from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander knowledge, one of the oldest knowledge systems in the world.

What?
Cultural Competence: Foundations of Racism will introduce participants to the historical context and contemporary forms of racism in Australia and outline the role that cultural competence can play in combating racism. Participants will deepen their understanding of interpersonal and institutional racism and develop their ability to recognise, acknowledge and challenge racism when they encounter it within their work environment.

Who is it for?
These sessions are open to all staff and will be useful for anyone thinking about how to embed cultural competence into their work practice.

Date
Wednesday 23 November 2016

Time
9:00am – 4:00pm

Location
Ivan Turner Room
Room 219, Level 2
Old Teachers College (A22)
The University of Sydney

Cost
Free for University of Sydney staff

Booking
Please book via our website:
http://sydney.edu.au/nccc/contact/workshop.shtml

For more information
National Centre for Cultural Competence
DVC Indigenous Strategy and Services
T +61 2 93517752 | E nccc@sydney.edu.au
W sydney.edu.au/nccc
The NCCC is a joint venture of the Australian Government and the University of Sydney

CRICOS 00026A