COMEDY AND COCKTAILS

The first Pharmacy alumni event of 2011 will take place on the evening of Thursday 10 February at the new trendiest café on campus, Taste Baguette. The event will feature one of our more famous comedian alumni, Marty Wilson. Marty graduated with a BPharm in 1991. His enthusiasm for breaking new ground saw him successfully launch into a number of industries; he was a pharmacist who became an award winning copywriter, who then worked for 8 years in the UK as a full-time Stand-Up Comic - doing the Edinburgh and Melbourne Festival to huge acclaim - and also wrote his own wine column. Marty promises to kick off the 1st pharmacy alumni event of 2011 with laughs and style.

So if you are a recent graduate, haven’t been to an alumni event before or are one of our regular attendees, this is the event of 2011 not to miss.

We will be opening up registration to this cocktail event on Monday 10 January 2011, but if you don’t want to miss out, register your interest now by emailing Jo Bilous on jo.bilous@sydney.edu.au

10th ANNIVERSARY A ROARING SUCCESS!

Over 200 people turned out for the Faculty’s 10th Anniversary Celebration in October. Faculty staff, alumni, friends and colleagues from the pharmacy profession and many students, both undergraduate and postgraduate, turned out in force to help mark the special occasion. Four guest speakers at different stages of very different careers shared with the gathering how studying pharmacy had helped shape their lives. “It was a very enjoyable night of celebration of our Faculty's and our profession's achievements in the past ten years” said Professor Iqbal Ramzan, Dean of Pharmacy. INTERESTED IN THE ARTS?

We know that Pharmacy Alumni have interests beyond the study of Pharmacy and for this reason we want to keep you up to date with The University of Sydney’s “cultural soul”.

This summer the university will be helping to open eyes, ignite debate and make hearts race just that little bit faster as leadership partner of the Sydney Festival. Once again the Festival is bringing an eclectic, stirring and thought provoking program of events and performers from around the world to Sydney in January.

Come and join us as our campus comes alive with exhilarating theatre, film, art, music and debate at the Seymour Centre, the Great Hall, the Quadrangle and Nicholson Museum.

To book tickets with an alumni discount go to www.sydneyfestival.org.au

Have you heard of Sydney Ideas? Sydney Ideas lets you experience some of the world’s leading thinkers in thought provoking and challenging free public lectures on subjects as diverse as women’s rights across Asia Pacific, and defining the great Australian Dream.

To look at the program of events and to secure a free ticket check out the Sydney Ideas website sydney.edu.au/sydney_ideas

You can visit one of the largest and finest collections of antiquities, art, ethnography and natural history collections of any Australian university, held in the Macleay Museum, Nicholson Museum and University Art Gallery, all for free. See what’s on at sydney.edu.au/museums/whatson/exhibitions.

Or you can immerse yourself in the diverse year-round performing arts program presented by the University’s Seymour Centre.

The festival sponsorship is only one example of the university’s commitment to engaging in Sydney’s diverse cultural life. This summer, come and join us as we stir things up in our own backyard.
2010 has been an extremely busy year for the Faculty and a challenging one. We can look back on a number of significant achievements and will continue to improve the way we work in terms of both efficiency and collaboration in the coming year.

2010 saw the release of the University’s ‘white-paper’, which has set out clear goals and a new direction for all sectors of the University. The implementation of strategies devised as part of this process will continue well into 2011 and beyond.

In 2010, together with Monash University, the University of South Australia and the University of Queensland we became one of the founding members of the National Alliance for Pharmacy Education (NAPE). As a result 2011 will see the rollout of our new Graduate Certificate in Pharmacy Practice program, designed to give students the opportunity to complete an Internship Training Program as well as provide them with a postgraduate qualification in Pharmacy Practice.

The Faculty itself has restructured around the therapeutic areas and disease states of respiratory disease, cancer, healthy ageing, mental health and cardiovascular and diabetes, to reflect the Australian Government’s national health priorities.

In light of our increasing need to build philanthropic support, the Faculty this year launched the new Faculty of Pharmacy Foundation. The Foundation will focus its efforts on attracting philanthropic funds for all areas of research at the Faculty.

A major highlight of the year was the Faculty’s 10th Anniversary celebration, held on the 7 October 2010 in the MacLaurin Hall. Over 200 friends and colleagues came to celebrate the achievements of the last ten years with us and to look forward with great optimism to the decade ahead.

I would like to take this opportunity to wish each of you a safe and happy festive season and look forward to seeing you back on campus in 2011 for some of our upcoming Alumni events.

PROFESSOR IQBAL RAMZAN
(MSc 1977, PhD 1981)
Dean, Faculty of Pharmacy

The last quarter of 2010 has been a busy period for the Pharmacy Alumni Association. Not only did we hold 2 very successful reunions (the Materia Medica classes of 1952 and 1960), but we were also part of the 10th Anniversary celebrations for the Faculty of Pharmacy.

All the events were a great success, with a special mention to be given to the Materia Medica class of 1960 who as a new initiative decided to fundraise for the SE Wright Travelling Scholarship. The class raised over $6000 for the scholarship that allows current students to study internationally for a semester. Thank you class of 1960.

The Alumni Association is planning events now for the 2011 calendar; so expect a busy and active year full of opportunities to catch up with your fellow Pharmacy Alumni. Make sure you put the dates in your diaries now (displayed under “Events” in this newsletter) and wait for more details to be emailed or posted on the website closer to the event.

As always, we are trying to track down some of our lost alumni, so if you haven’t heard from the University in a while, it’s probably because we no longer have your current details. So stay in touch and keep us updated with your change of postal and email address. Contact Jo Bilous our alumni Officer at jo.bilous@sydney.edu.au or on 02 9351 7829 to update your details now.

Have a happy and safe end of year and holiday period, and I hope to catch up with you at our next Alumni Event.

ROSS BROWN AM RFD ED
President,
Pharmacy Alumni Association
“We are not only celebrating 10 years as a Faculty, but also 111 years of pharmacy education and research at the University of Sydney” said Professor Iqbal Ramzan, Dean of Pharmacy, in his address to over 200 staff, friends and colleagues from the pharmacy profession who attended the Faculty’s 10th anniversary celebration in October.

“The speakers were inspiring, the trivia (run by the students of Sydney University Pharmacy Association) was both challenging and amusing and catching up with old friends and colleagues made the night one to remember.”

The event included a 3 course meal, pharmacy trivia, live music and four guest speakers, each at a different stage of their career, who shared with the audience how studying pharmacy has helped shape their lives.

They were Dr Geoffrey Vaughan AO (BSc ’56), former Dean of the Faculty of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences at Monash University (and former Australian Wallaby), Sandra Bates (MatMed ’59), Creative Director of the Ensemble Theatre, Benison O’Reilly (BPharm ’85), medical writer and published author and Daniel Rifkin (BPharm ’08), a recent graduate of the Bachelor of Pharmacy at Sydney.

Professor Ramzan officially launched the new Faculty of Pharmacy Foundation at the event. “On behalf of the Faculty and the Foundation’s President, Mr. Maurice Renshaw, I am very pleased to be able to launch the new Faculty of Pharmacy Foundation this evening. We have been privileged to have had an associated philanthropic foundation in Pharmacy since 1978 and have been the fortunate recipient of a great many generous donations from alumni, friends and corporate partners” he said.
"The new Faculty of Pharmacy Foundation will focus its efforts on attracting philanthropic funds for all areas of research in the Faculty and from all areas of the pharmacy profession, including the pharmaceutical industry and community pharmacy. This will ensure a continuation of the previous pharmacy management and practice initiatives and funding for exciting new cross-disciplinary research initiatives."

Dr Michael Spence, Vice Chancellor and Principal, was among over two hundred colleagues from the University and the Pharmacy profession who attended the event and joined in the theme of 'Looking Back, Looking Forward'.

"It was a very enjoyable night of celebration of our Faculty's and our profession's achievements in the past ten years. With the help of the Foundation we can look forward with great optimism to the next ten" said Professor Ramzan.

As guests left for the night the success of the event was obvious; the wide grins on their faces and the inquiry of "where is the after party Professor Ramzan?" said it all!

SAVE THE DATE for next year’s event – The Pharmacy Annual Black Tie Dinner will be held on Thursday 13 October 2011. You can register your interest by emailing jo.bilous@sydney.edu.au
Professor Hak-Kim Chan, Professor in Pharmaceutics (Advanced Drug Delivery) at the Faculty of Pharmacy, together with Dr Runyu Y Yang from the University of New South Wales, have recently been successful in attracting an ARC Discovery Grant to further their research project on powder aerosol inhalers.

The project, entitled ‘Developing novel aerosol inhalers for pulmonary drug delivery from the fundamental understanding of powder dispersion mechanisms’, has attracted funding for the next three years of $255,000.

“Competitive research grants are a critical part of our research effort at the Faculty and I am delighted to have been successful in this latest round” says Professor Chan.

“The project will help us to understand how to significantly improve powder aerosol inhalers. The outcome will provide therapeutic benefits to the Australian community for better treatment of respiratory diseases and will facilitate the developments of environmentally friendly technology since these inhalers do not require any harmful organic solvents to operate” he explains.

Professor Chan is leader of the Faculty of Pharmacy’s Respiratory Disease research theme. The group is committed to bridging the gap between respiratory treatment and research by developing clinical services, specific clinical interventions, effective patient/health education as well as self-management techniques.

Research on advanced drug delivery within the respiratory research theme is focused on understanding physical properties of materials used in pharmaceutical sciences and relating those to in-vitro and subsequent in-vivo performance.

The respiratory research theme has a diverse range of skills and possesses a multidisciplinary outlook through having psychologists, clinical pharmacists, asthma educators, pharmacy academics and management and organisational behaviour experts.

MENTAL HEALTH E-LEARNING PROGRAM FOR PHARMACY STUDENTS & PRACTITIONERS

One in five Australian adults suffer an episode of mental illness in any one-year period. Pharmacists can play a significant role in delivering treatment and services to mental health patients.

Claire O’Reilly

Pharmacy PhD candidate Claire O’Reilly has focused on improving services currently provided through community pharmacies and on developing and evaluating new training and education programs for pharmacists and pharmacy students in this area.

As part of her PhD, Claire has produced an educational DVD, which is currently being used as an educational e-learning tool for pharmacy students at the University of Sydney, and has the long term potential to be used as an educational resource for practising pharmacists dealing with customers who suffer from mental illness.

“I developed an interest in the mental health field a number of years ago through my involvement in Dr Tim Chen’s research on the topic in community mental health settings. Some pharmacists expressed a lack of confidence around providing specialised services to mental health patients and the need for more education and training” she explains.

The educational DVD includes interviews with individuals who describe their own experience of mental illness and the challenges they face due to a high level of stigma that is still associated with the disease.

The DVD includes a number of role-play scenarios based on real life experiences, which explore the do’s and don’ts of how to interact with a customer who is dealing with an illness such as schizophrenia or depression.

As part of their undergraduate training, students at the Faculty of Pharmacy are given the opportunity to take part in small group workshops with representatives from the Schizophrenia Fellowship.

“These workshops have proven to be a highly effective way to debunk myths around mental illness for our students and allows them to build confidence in providing specialist services in this area” says Claire. “I wanted to explore whether the same benefits can be derived from an e-learning experience, which is where the idea for the DVD came about.”

“Through trials with third and fourth year undergraduate students at the Faculty, we’ve found that for most of the broader issues and stigma surrounding mental illness the e-learning experience was just as effective as the face-to-face workshops” she explains.

“Obviously there is still greater value from face-to-face experiences in other areas but we feel that the DVD has huge potential to be of significant use to practicing pharmacists who might currently lack the confidence to provide a specialist service to their customers who suffer from a mental health illness” she says.

Funding for the DVD came in part from Teaching Improvement and Equipment Grant Scheme (TIES) as well as from the International Pharmaceutical Federation (FIP) who awarded Claire with the Young Professional award for Innovation at their Annual Congress in Istanbul in 2009. Development of the e-learning program also formed part of an Bachelor of Pharmacy honours project for Elizabeth Nguyen a current final year student at the Faculty.

Claire is currently writing up the final chapters of her PhD and hopes to submit it early 2011.
WHAT’S NEW IN PHARMACY?

FACULTY OF PHARMACY INTRODUCES GRADUATE CERTIFICATE IN PHARMACY PRACTICE

The Faculty of Pharmacy has introduced a Graduate Certificate in Pharmacy Practice, which incorporates the NAPE Intern Training Program (ITP). The ITP units are based on the highly successful program at Monash University and the University of South Australia.

The ITP aims to enrol 50 students in 2011. Pharmacy interns who successfully complete the two units of study that make up the ITP will be able to complete a further two units of specialised study in order to achieve the award of the Graduate Certificate in Pharmacy Practice.

Specialised units of study to be offered in 2012 as part of the Graduate Certificate include Healthy Ageing and Mental Health, both of which are areas of research and teaching strength of the Faculty of Pharmacy at the University of Sydney.

ABOUT THE NAPE ITP
The NAPE ITP is a competency-based program, developed to address the Competency Standards for Pharmacists in Australia, 2003 in accordance with the Accreditation Standards for Australian Pharmacy Intern Training programs 2010.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES
- To provide high quality, multimodal, comprehensive learning experiences, so, at the completion of the program, interns have the “knowledge, skills and attributes which meet all functional areas described in the current Competency Standards for Pharmacists in Australia necessary to commence unsupervised practice as a competent registered pharmacist.
- To provide comprehensive support to interns to assist them as they progress from intern to registered pharmacist.
- To immerse interns in the experience of lifelong learning and provide an opportunity for pharmacists to obtain formal postgraduate qualifications in pharmacy practice.

PROGRAM FORMAT AND COMPONENTS
The program uses a flexible teaching model involving face-to-face as well as external delivery. The program will be delivered by both University of Sydney faculty staff and practising pharmacists and focuses on small-group interaction and online learning via a single website portal for the program. Face-to-face and online learning is supplemented by learning portfolio activities to further develop and demonstrate required competencies.

Program components include:
- four compulsory two day seminars with a focus on small group interactive formats
  - designed to provide interns with opportunities to interact with each other and experts in the profession
  - small group online discussion forums moderated by experienced practising pharmacists;
- open discussion forum
- online pharmaceutical calculations and law quizzes and examination;
- learning portfolio activities, including continuing professional development (CPD) activities
- ongoing assistance to preceptors and interns to enhance the development of intern competencies.

SEMINAR DATES
All seminars are held at the University of Sydney. Dates for 2011:
- Seminar 1: Feb 4 & 5 (Fri/Sat)
- Seminar 2: April 28 & 29 (Thurs/Fri)
- Seminar 3: July 17 & 18 (Sun/Mon)
- Seminar 4: Sept 17 & 18 (Sat/Sun)

KEY DATES
- Applications open - Oct 2010
- Applications close - Dec 3, 2010
- Acceptance notified - Dec 10, 2010
- Semester 1 begins - Feb 1, 2011
- End of semester 1 - May 27, 2011
- Semester 2 begins - June 20, 2011
- End of semester 2 - Oct 7, 2011

COURSE FEES
The University of Sydney has allocated 50 Commonwealth Supported Places for the Graduate Certificate in 2011. Course fees are therefore covered by HECS for those students who are eligible. The ITP is not available to international applicants in 2011.

WHAT’S NEW IN PHARMACY?

BACHELOR OF PHARMACY – NEW 4TH YEAR CURRICULUM TO ROLL OUT IN 2011

The Bachelor of Pharmacy was introduced at the University of Sydney in 1960, marking the beginning of pharmacy degree programs in Australia. During the 1990s the program underwent a number of changes and in 1997 was transitioned from a three-year undergraduate degree to a four-year program, with the first graduation of four-year graduates occurring in 2001.

The Faculty recently updated the undergraduate curriculum to create a more integrated framework of pharmacy modules that better reflect contemporary pharmacy practice and improves industry relevance. Students can choose to major in rural or industrial pharmacy, pharmacy management or experience an international placement during their final year.

During third and fourth year, considerable time is spent in clinical placements in community and hospital pharmacies, where students gain valuable practical experience. In the new Bachelor of Pharmacy curriculum, the clinical and experiential program has also been updated to reflect the contemporary health care environment. By the end of their fourth year, all students will have had at least three one-week clinical and experiential placement ‘blocks’ as well as the series of community pharmacy visits. The one-week block placements are carried out at hospital and community pharmacies, and will include opportunities in the pharmaceutical industry, professional organisations and in rural health settings.

The Faculty also offers a number of specialist programs designed to help students meet their full potential. These include the Talented Students Program where students are given the opportunity to experience a wide range of activities across all disciplines of the pharmacy profession or the Blooms Business Skills Program, offered to students on a voluntary basis to teach them business management skills. The summer vacation placement and industry placement schemes provide successful students with a greater understanding of the research process and the pharmaceutical industry respectively.
DONALD EVANS (1926 - 2010)

The Faculty of Pharmacy has been extremely fortunate over the past ten years to have had the assistance and collegiality of Donald Evans (1926 - 2010). Don has made an outstanding contribution to pharmacy and pharmacy education over a generation. The scope of his pharmacy practice and experience was very obvious when Don provided informal talks to our final pharmacy students on "managing emergencies in the pharmacy", "dealing with the grieving patient" and "talking to patients about taking their medicines". He was an active member of the local community and has let a lasting impact on the communities he worked in. Over his working life Don mentored and trained many early career pharmacists with his strong focus on professionalism, effective communication and the importance of patient care.

Don initiated the pharmacist volunteer program at the Faculty where qualified pharmacists give of their time to assist our 3rd and 4th year undergraduate students in learning about extemporaneous dispensing.

Don passed away in September 2010 and will be sadly missed by the academic staff, his fellow volunteers and the many students who benefitted from his teaching at the Faculty.

"Don made a remarkable and generous contribution to the Faculty and to our students" said Dr Romano Fois, lecturer in pharmaceutics at the Faculty. "It is because of Don's tireless efforts that we have so many dedicated volunteer pharmacists involved in our programs."

Professor Andrew McLachlan said "Don Evans was a generous pharmacist who brought an enthusiasm and energy to the art and science of dispensing that was highly valued by the pharmacy students and staff". He also added that over the recent years Don was working on the draft of a book which draws on his views and experiences in pharmacy capturing pharmacy history and future professional directions.

"Tributes to Don have been pouring in since we received the sad news, from both colleagues and former students" said Professor Iqbal Ramzan, Dean of Pharmacy "On behalf of the Faculty I would like to extend our deepest condolences to his family at this time. Don's company, experience and wisdom will be missed. Not only was he a pleasure to work with he was also an excellent advisor."

PHARMACY ALUMNUS HONOURED FOR LIFETIME SERVICES TO ROWING

Mr. Iain McDonald, a graduate of the University of Sydney’s Materia Medica 1960, has recently been presented with the prestigious ‘Award for Lifetime Services to Rowing’ by NSW Rowing Club at its annual presentation night.

"Being part of the rowing team gave me the discipline to reach graduation" says Iain, who was a blue recipient in 1967 for outstanding achievement in University sport.

Iain was part of the University’s team that won the Oxford and Cambridge Cup for two years in a row in Perth and Brisbane. He also rowed in the NSW Double Scull Championships in 1960, ‘61, ‘62 and again in 1967, winning in ‘60 and ‘61 and getting the silver in ‘62 and ‘67. Iain was also selected as reserve for the eight and stroke of the double scull in the Australian team for the Trans Tasman Test Series.

Iain moved to England in 1963 where, as well as working as a pharmacist, he continued his involvement with the sport, rowing at the Royal Regatta at Henley the same year. In 1966 Iain returned to Australia and joined up with his old University rowing coach Dr Eric Longley. In 1967 he joined an inexperienced Sydney University crew who were narrowly defeated in the NSW Champion Eights. "The crew who beat us eventually won silver at the Mexico Olympics" he remembers. Iain became president of the University’s Boat Club that same year and continued to represent Sydney University in all classes of boats from single sculls, double sculls, fours and eights until 1973. He was appointed manager of the Australian Rowing Team, at the time mostly consisting of Sydney University crew, who travelled to the World Championships in Luzern in 1974.

"Rowing opened a lot of doors for me" he says, "it’s a great common denominator and it made me aware of the equality of the professions” he says.

Iain spent most of his professional career involved in retail pharmacy but also doing locum work in regional NSW. In 2000 he decided to volunteer for 3 months with Assistana Medica International, a Portuguese based NGO which operates in parallel with Medicines Sans Frontiers (MSF) in Timor-Leste, which he describes as an extremely rewarding experience. In 2002, Iain was presented with the University’s Alumni Award for Community Service, which recognised his volunteer efforts as well as his participation in a major fundraising ‘rowathon’ on the Murray River in aid of the Royal Flying Doctor Service. In addition Iain received the Snowy River Shire Council Australia Day Award for service to the community in January 2000.

Iain finished his pharmacy career at Bloomfield’s Psychiatric Hospital in Orange. "It was great to have a completely new learning curve at the end of my career” says Iain “it’s been a varied and interesting journey."

Iain officially retired in 2009 and was still busy with rowing responsibilities up until April of 2010, having continued his involvement with the sport as an official for NSW Rowing. He had been chief judge at the ‘Head of the River’ since 1996 and an active volunteer at the Sydney Olympics at the rowing venue working with I.O.C. relations.

"It’s an honour to be recognised in this way” he says of the award “but I also feel lucky to have been able to stay involved with the sport all these years.”

REUNIONS

In late September 2010 the Faculty of Pharmacy played host to the Reunions of 1952 and 1960, and what a couple of reunions they were!

The Materia Medica class of 1952 celebrated 58 years since their graduation, and although they admitted that they had slowed down a little since their university days, the classmates had no difficulty in catching up where they last left off at their 55th reunion in 2007.

The Materia Medica class of 1960 held their first reunion in 50 years. The Pharmacy corridor was filled with exclamations and screams, as old friends (and flames!) were reunited for the first time since graduation.

Students from SUPA (Sydney University Pharmacy Association) gave the 2 classes tours of the updated Pharmacy Building and discussed with the attendees the changes that had occurred in the course and syllabus over the last 50 years.

Over lunch Ross Brown, Alumni Association President and graduate of 1952, as “Hits of the 50’s” played in the background, called the reunion “a fantastic day of fun and catch-ups”.

The class of 1960 in addition to their reunion fundraised over $6000 for a Scholarship fund set up in honour of their late Professor S.E Wright. Margot Machliss, organiser of the 1960 reunion told Fiat Mist that they “wanted to give something back to the University and the establishment of a Travelling fund allowing students to experience International Pharmacy practises was a perfect way to contribute.”

If you are interested in organising a reunion for your year, then the Faculty would love to assist you in anyway they can. We are currently looking for motivated alumni from the graduation years of 2001, 1991, 1981, 1971, and 1961 to start organising their 10th, 20th, 30th, 40th and 50th reunions for 2011.

Please contact the Faculty’s Alumni Officer Jo Bilous for more information on jo.bilous@sydney.edu.au or phone 02 9351 7829.
