McGarvie Smith R Watts Memorial Scholarship

Established in 2003 by a donation to the Faculty of Veterinary Science by the McGarvie Smith Trust. The purpose of the donation was to encourage veterinarians and animal scientists servicing the livestock industries in New South Wales to undertake postgraduate training in veterinary public health. This will be achieved through the establishment of a scholarship to be known as the Roy Watts Memorial Scholarship.

Selection criteria

- The Scholarship shall be awarded on the basis of academic merit, based on transcripts of previous tertiary study; a written application that describes the applicant’s background, commitment to the livestock industries in NSW, or how he or she plans to further this in the future, commitment to working in a team and willingness to become part of a national/global team supporting the livestock industries, and career goals; and the reports of three referees.

- The postgraduate scholarship may only be awarded to an applicant who is admitted to the Veterinary Public Health Management Program and enrols accordingly.
