Background
The scholarship honours Emeritus Professor Raymond John Chambers, AO, BEd, DScEcon, FASA, FASSA and Head of the Department of Accounting from 1960 to 1982. The scholarship is intended to assist Ph.D. candidates (whether part-time or full-time) to complete their dissertation as quickly as possible. As such, the scholarship can be used for teaching relief, research support (such as data collection) or any associated expense approved by the Academic Director of the Accounting Foundation.

Selection criteria
- Academic Merit

Ongoing eligibility
- Scholarship holders provide a report to the President of the Accounting Foundation no later than March 31 of the year following that for which the scholarship is held.
- Scholarship holders prominently acknowledge the support of the R.J. Chambers Ph.D. Scholarship in both their submitted thesis and on any resulting publications.
- Award of the scholarship is conditional upon the applicant maintaining Ph.D. candidature within the Department of Accounting.
