Week beginning: 1 July 2013

RESEARCH: Information Technologies; Modelling coordination for disease outbreaks

Research Scholarships

Postgraduate Scholarship in Traditional Chinese Medicine Informatics
A completion scholarship is available for candidate with a good honours degree in science or engineering to undertake research studies leading to a MPhil; the project is to study and propose appropriate computational method(s) to analyse HPLC fingerprints of herbs in relation to their biological outcome; successful candidate will be expected to complete within the funding period. No further funding is available; $16,500 for 6 months.

Closing Date: 26 July 2013

Postgraduate Scholarship in Modelling coordination for disease outbreaks
A PhD scholarship is available for candidate with a degree in science or engineering and experience in research; the project is modelling coordination for disease outbreaks; applicants should have suitable research experience, demonstrable publication record, and a particular interest in modelling coordination for disease outbreaks; demonstrable communication skills as well as experience in publishing research papers is essential; $24,653 pa; an additional top-up scholarship may be available for an appropriately qualified candidate; a fee waiver scholarship may be provided for a qualified international student.

Closing Date: 10 July 2013