Welcome to the Sydney Summer School

Welcome to the University of Sydney Summer and Winter School. We look forward to your enrolment in the units of study that we offer in the periods between regular semesters.

During the summer sessions we offer more than 100 undergraduate and postgraduate units of study from faculties across the University. These are taught during three sessions at the Summer School, from December through to February, either on campus or online.

The Winter School runs a smaller program in July each year.

Applications for Summer School open on 4 October 2016 and for Winter School on 10 May 2017. You apply online through Sydney Student.

Applications are open to any domestic or international student who is currently enrolled at an Australian university, international students on a visitor's visa, and tertiary-qualified Australian residents.

How does Summer School work?

The Sydney Summer School offers a full-fee, intensive program comprised of undergraduate and postgraduate units of study from most faculties at the University. The units are the same as those available in the standard Semesters 1 and 2, but are taught in a compressed, or intensive mode, over summer and winter sessions.

Three summer sessions are offered:

- Summer Early
Commencing 28 November 2016
- Summer Main
Commencing 9 January 2017
- Summer Late
Commencing 16 January 2017

Summer School units have varying timetables, from two weeks intensive to seven weeks intensive, plus exams, in any one of the three sessions.

Please see pages 22 to 32 for a list of the available units. All timetable information is posted to our website when enrolments open.

Winter School is offered from 3-26 July 2017. You can take only one unit at the Winter School. Units are listed on page 36.

Other units may be added to our program after the publication of this guide, so please visit our website for further updates.

Why take a Summer or Winter School class?

There are many advantages. You can:

- study at one of Australia's foremost universities
- accelerate your academic career and finish your degree sooner
- repeat any units you have not completed successfully
- reduce your workload throughout the rest of the year
- devote your full attention to a single area of study
- audit a unit outside your current degree course
- add a Summer or Winter School unit to your study abroad program
- access Summer or Winter School for a short stay, international study experience.

Recent Year 12 graduates can attend summer sessions to:

- experience the University
- make an early start on their degree.

Please note, successful completion of a Summer or Winter School unit is not an offer of admission to the University of Sydney.

Who can enrol?

Applicants will need to meet any prerequisites for the unit(s) in which they would like to enrol.

Students who are eligible to enrol include:

Current students

Current students are domestic or international students with active enrolments at any Australian tertiary institution. International students who are currently enrolled in degree courses at overseas universities may also apply to study at Summer or Winter School. Note, this only requires you to travel on a short-term visitor's visa, not a student visa.

Other suitably qualified applicants

Australian residents holding educational qualifications that would grant admission to a further degree program who wish to take non-degree study.

Students completing the HSC in 2016

Students currently studying their HSC who qualify for entrance to a university degree course may enrol in a January 2017 summer session.

Recent HSC graduates may enrol for one unit only, from the list, 'Units for Year 12 graduates', on page 35.

"I arrived not knowing what to expect, since it was my first time living in another country. I fell in love with Australian culture and know I'll be back. I wouldn't trade my time at the University of Sydney for anything. It was a life-changing experience."

Sam Lewis

Bachelor of Arts (international student from the United States)

Not-for-credit, audit study

Prospective students who are not enrolled in any current university course may sit in on units, or audit them. Auditing a unit means you are not required to sit or submit the assessment tasks because this study will not be credited towards an enrolled degree course.

Units available for audit are charged at 75 percent of the normal tuition fee. These units are listed on page 34.

Please note that students enrolling for credit will be given preference if places are limited.

Prerequisites

Prerequisites are units of study that need to be successfully completed before another unit of study can be attempted. Prerequisites can be mandatory (compulsory) or advisory.

If you do not satisfy a prerequisite and still wish to undertake a summer or winter unit, then you will need to seek special permission online, through Sydney Student at the time of your application. This will be considered by the relevant faculty with the decision communicated to you prior to the commencement of summer or winter classes.

Please note:

- If your application to waive a prerequisite is not approved, you must choose another unit appropriate to your course level.
- Prerequisites are different to corequisites: corequisites are units which must be undertaken concurrently with a given unit of summer or winter study, either later on, or in the same academic year.

Academic credit

University of Sydney students

If your summer or winter unit of study is part of your current degree course for credit and you have satisfied the prerequisites, successful completion of the unit will appear as a final mark and grade on your student record for potential graduation from your course.

If you are not currently enrolled at an Australian university, or if your Summer or Winter School unit cannot be added to your current university record because of course rules, you will be enrolled in Summer or Winter School as a non-award student. Results for non-award unit completion are available on official University of Sydney academic transcripts.

Students from other universities

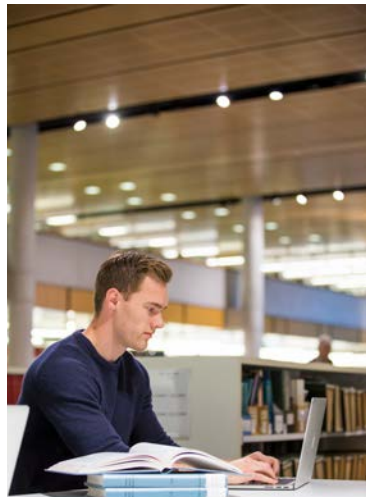

If you are an incoming, cross-institutional student from another Australian university, you will need to ensure that enrolment in our summer or winter units will count towards an award course at your university.

It is your responsibility to obtain written confirmation from your home institution to this effect which must be uploaded to your application at point of initial online application through Sydney Student.

It is also your responsibility as an inbound cross institutional student to check with your own university that your University of Sydney, summer or winter enrolment through the Sydney Summer School meets your award course requirements elsewhere.

If you are a student from another institution taking a Summer or Winter School unit, you should contact Academic Records for an official University of Sydney transcript after results have been finalised, to present to your home university for credit:

How to apply

Continuing students

1. Unit of study selection

Review the Summer School unit of study list for unit availability, timetable, tuition fees and any academic prerequisites for admission. You can apply to enrol in two Summer School units of study.

2. Submitting your application

Log in to Sydney Student, click on 'My Studies', 'Summer/Winter School', enter the Summer School unit of study code, and then follow the prompts to submit your application

3. Permission

If you'd like to select a unit of study outside your degree plan, or waive a prerequisite, you will need to submit a Special Permission request in Sydney Student.

4. Payment

Your Student Financial Statement in Sydney Student will be updated once your application for Summer School has been approved and you are enrolled.

If you are eligible for FEE-HELP, you will need to complete an online FEE-HELP form in Sydney Student.

Upfront payments can be made by using one of our accepted payment methods.

Please note you will need to pay your fees within four calendar days otherwise you may be withdrawn.

Cross-institutional and non-award students

1. Unit of study selection

Review the Summer School unit of study list for unit availability, timetable, tuition fees and any academic prerequisites for admission. You can apply to enrol in two Summer School units of study.

2. Submitting your application

Under each unit description on the unit of study list there will be a link to the appropriate non-award (red button) or cross-institutional course (yellow button), click on 'Apply Now' and follow the steps through Sydney Student to register your application.

3. Upload all supporting documents

You will need to provide these supporting documents:

- Your current academic transcript as evidence of your enrolment
- A letter from your home university indicating approval to credit your Sydney study to your course
- IELTS or equivalent English language test documentation, if admission to your home university required English language test results.

Your application for admission to non-award or cross-institutional study will be assessed on the basis of whether you meet essential academic prerequisites, and will be subject to quotas of individual units of study.

4. Offer and acceptance

You will receive an email at the address you provided during your application, letting you know that your offer can be viewed in Sydney Student. Login to review the details of your offer, including information about approved units of study.

5. Conditional offers

If you have not provided all essential information as part of your application, you will receive a conditional offer. You need to meet all conditions before we can issue you with an unconditional offer.

6. Accepting unconditional offers

Please log in to Sydney Student and accept your unconditional offer of admission. Once you have done this, you will receive information about how to enrol in your Summer or Winter School unit of study.

7. Enrolment and payment

Your enrolment is your commitment to study at the University. Follow the online steps to complete the enrolment task.

When your enrolment is complete, you can view a Student Financial Statement.

Domestic, cross-institutional students enrolled at other Australian universities may request FEE-HELP and will need to complete an online FEE-HELP form accessible in Sydney Student.

Upfront payments can be made by using one of our accepted payment methods.

Short term visas and English language proficiency

If you're from an overseas university and you intend to enrol only in a Summer or Winter School unit, then you need to travel on a visitor's visa (not a student visa).

If you enrol for a Sydney Summer School unit on a visitor's visa, remember that the combined length of any studies you undertake in Australia cannot be more than three months. Also, make sure the conditions of your visa do not prohibit you from engaging in studies or training.

If English is not your first language, then you will need to provide proof of English language proficiency. For more details, visit:

– sydney.edu.au/study/english-reqs

“I am delighted to have had the opportunity to teach ENGL2658: Love and Desire in Early Modern England during Winter School 2015. I found this unit to be enriching for myself as well as the students. The smaller class size and intensive nature of Winter School generated engaging and thoughtful discussions throughout the unit.

“Importantly, the class structure also allowed the students to create a highly collegial environment, which was productive for their studies and helped to develop their thinking about the texts as well as their communication skills.

“I would unreservedly recommend Winter School to students and staff as an opportunity to share and develop knowledge and skills through a short but enriching program.”

Clair Hanson
Faculty of Arts and
Social Sciences teacher

Study load and special requirements

The intensive mode in which we present units requires a substantial commitment of time and effort, inside and outside the classroom. For this reason, you can only take two units in the Summer School and one in the Winter School. You need to attend at least 80 percent of classroom hours.

Faculty rules for enrolment and study load

Mathematics and Statistics

You can enrol in two 3-credit-point (cp) first-year mathematics units, as well as a third 6cp unit in another discipline at the Summer School (total: 12cp). Senior mathematics units are worth 6cp.

At Winter School, you can apply for one 3cp junior mathematics unit and another 6cp unit, if necessary for your enrolment pattern.

For more advice from the School of Mathematics and Statistics, please contact:

Chamreun Cheen
Student Services Manager
chamreun.cheen@sydney.edu.au

Law

Law units at Summer and Winter School are only open to students currently enrolled in a law course at the University of Sydney.

Note, combined degree students need to have completed their first degree before proceeding to Bachelor of Laws only units at summer or winter sessions.

Fees

The University calculates tuition fees for Summer and Winter School units of study based on each student's residency status and the degree that the unit will be credited towards.

Tuition academic fees vary between courses, and the academic year in which you undertake your study. See pages 14 and 15 for details of tuition fees.

All tuition fees shown in this guide are:

- quoted in Australian dollars and correct at the time of publication
- indicative tuition fees for the 2016–17 Summer and Winter School periods.

Annual review

The University's tuition fees are subject to annual review and will increase each year of your period of study, effective at the start of each calendar year.

HECS-HELP and FEE-HELP

Summer School and Winter School enrolments are full fee-paying and are not covered by HECS-HELP (Commonwealth supported places), however FEE-HELP is available to eligible domestic students (to defer the cost of their units). To find out more, visit studyassist.gov.au

You can complete your FEE-HELP form online at the time of your application, or collect a FEE-HELP application form from the Sydney Summer School office.

Please also note the following.

- If you have outstanding fees owing to the University of Sydney, you may not be able to enrol in the Summer or Winter School until these fees have been paid, depending upon the nature of the debt.

- For students not covered by FEE-HELP, full payment of tuition fees is required within four calendar days of confirmation of enrolment in Summer or Winter School units.

Research Training Scheme

Domestic HDR (higher degree by research) students are covered by the Research Training Scheme (RTS) and are exempt from the payment of tuition fees, up to a government-specified maximum. To find out more, visit

- sydney.edu.au/rts

RTS students may apply to do Summer or Winter units as part of their research degree. However, in order to have the tuition fee absorbed under the RTS, they need to obtain approval from the relevant unit of study coordinator, their research supervisor, and the research coordinator at their faculty. The application will then be processed by the University's Higher Degree Research Administration Centre.

Method of payment

There are several ways you can pay your tuition fees. A surcharge of 0.8 percent will apply for payments made by Visa or MasterCard. The surcharge is subject to review and may change. Information about payment methods and the surcharge is set out at:

- sydney.edu.au/study/finances-fees-costs/fees-and-loans/paying-your-fees.html

Student Services and Amenities fee

This fee does not apply to students only enrolled in units offered at the Summer or Winter School.

Other costs

Some units of study may incur additional expenses to cover textbooks, course notes, fieldwork, travel or other expenses.

In addition, you should allow for living costs such as food and rent.

- sydney.edu.au/study/finances-fees-costs/living-costs.html

If you are an international student, you will need to budget for health insurance through the Overseas Student Health Cover (OSHC) scheme. This is an Australian Government requirement for all student visa holders.

Scholarships and prizes

Scholarships

A limited number of partial and full scholarships for Summer and Winter School study are available to domestic undergraduate students (from any university) with a good academic record who are experiencing financial and educational hardship.

To be eligible to apply you need to provide evidence of long-term, serious educational disadvantage based on two or more criteria, one of which must be financial hardship.

Applications close on:

- 31 October 2016 for Summer School scholarships
- 5 June 2017 for Winter School scholarships.

For more information, visit:

- sydney.edu.au/summer/summer_winter/scholarships

Merit prize

Each Summer, one merit prize of $2000 will be awarded to an undergraduate student taking subjects from the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences. There is no need to apply – the prize will automatically be awarded to the student with the highest mark.

“Summer School is a great new experience for me as an international student. It provides many benefits. There is no better option to lift the heavy load and fast-track your course of study than doing Summer School. It offers the richness of interaction and learning between students and lecturers, which can be challenging during semester when classes are big. Summer School provided me with the opportunity to learn efficiently and effectively. Because you only focus on one unit of study, the experience is much more rewarding, both practically and academically.”

Evelyn Thuge
Master of Professional Accounting

Summer and Winter School session dates

Summer School

Summer School 2016–17 will be taught in three sessions:

- Summer Early
Commencing 28 November 2016
- Summer Main
Commencing 9 January 2017
- Summer Late
Commencing 16 January 2017.

Different units will be offered in each session. The enrolment, class and census dates will vary depending on the session.

To find out which session a particular unit has been assigned to, and the relevant dates, please visit:

- sydney.edu.au/summer

“Students who attend Summer School are motivated to give their best, knowing they will be encouraged and supported in all aspects of their learning experience. The small class size gives them ample opportunity to ask questions and guarantees strong individual attention. Students accept the high, yet manageable, workload as a factor that contributes to their success in this course.”

Jacqueline Murguet
Introductory Junior French 2 teacher

Please note, Summer School classes are not scheduled on these dates:

- Monday 19 December 2016 to Monday 2 January 2017 (Christmas and New Year)
- Thursday 5 January 2017 (University of Sydney Info Day)
- Thursday 26 January 2017 (Australia Day holiday)

Winter School

Winter School 2017 will run from 3–23 July 2017 (including examination week, which begins on 24 July).

Census dates and graduation

The census date is when all administrative matters associated with your enrolment need to be finalised. The date is based on when your unit commences.

You may withdraw from a Summer or Winter School unit without academic penalty and receive a full refund by the relevant census date, as follows:

Session	Census date
Summer Early	3 January 2017
Summer Main	18 January 2017
Summer Late	30 January 2017
Winter School	10 July 2017

Graduation

If you have passed your Summer or Winter School unit(s) and have now completed all the academic requirements for your award, you are eligible to graduate. The Graduations Office will allocate you to a ceremony date. Check the ceremony schedule and learn more on our website:

- sydney.edu.au/graduation

“I did Summer School because I had to catch up a failed unit and didn’t want to overload in the semester. The lecturing style, modification of assessment to suit the needs of Summer School students and the genuine care from tutors not only changed my attitude towards a unit I had disliked previously, it also kindled my desire to improve and gain more knowledge in the area. My result – a distinction – reflects this.”

Bethany Kings
Faculty of Arts and
Social Sciences student

Withdrawal and refund policy

If you withdraw from a Summer or Winter School unit of study on or before the census date for the relevant session, you will be eligible for a full refund of your tuition fees.

The census date is the date by which all your enrolment requirements must be finalised and is the last date that you can withdraw from a unit without incurring a financial liability for that unit.

If you discontinue from a Summer or Winter School unit of study after the census date, you will be ineligible for a refund and will be liable for 100 percent of your tuition fee or FEE-HELP debt.

How to apply for a refund

If you have paid your tuition fee, then withdrawn prior to the census date, and your Sydney Student account is in credit, you may request a refund through Sydney Student.

Click on 'My finance', 'Your finances', 'Continue', then 'Request refund'.

If you don't request a refund, the fees will automatically roll over and be applied to future liabilities.

Please note: payments made by Visa or MasterCard that have incurred a 0.8 percent surcharge will be fully refunded inclusive of the surcharge.

If the refund is a partial refund, the surcharge component to be refunded will be calculated on a pro rata basis.

If you chose FEE-HELP and have withdrawn before the census date, then your FEE-HELP is automatically cancelled.

If you are an international student and require assistance, contact:

If you're a domestic student, please contact the Student Centre for further information.

Academic penalty

You can withdraw from a unit of study until the end date of the teaching period however there may be an academic penalty. The teaching period is defined in hours of scheduled classes from the first day through to the last day, excluding the final examination or assessment.

Academic penalties can include:

- Discontinued Not to Count as Failure (DC) – this grade applies if you withdraw after the census date but before half of the teaching period for that subject. You will not receive a refund of your tuition fees. DC will be recorded on your academic transcript.
- Discontinue with fail (DF) applies if you withdraw after the census date and after half of the teaching period has passed, but only to the end of the teaching period. You may not withdraw after this date. You will not receive a refund of their tuition fee. DF will be recorded on your academic transcript.

“I enjoy teaching in the Summer School because it provides an opportunity to engage with law students from a range of different universities. As a learning environment, the Summer School offers the advantage of small class sizes and an intensive teaching mode.”

Ross Anderson
Associate Dean (Learning and Teaching)

What our students say

“I initially took Summer School as I had not passed the unit of study the first time round. Even though the course was accelerated I was able to visualise the problems significantly better. This aspect of the course was much better explained in Summer School and I was now able to see exactly what I was doing and why. All in all, the summer ‘escapade’ was one that I would definitely recommend.”

Navin Zabeit

Bachelor of Engineering student

“The reason I took Summer School was to complete my course and I never expected that the activities and the discussions in class would be so interesting and dynamic. Time flew fast. I had an unexpected and awesome experience. I never thought I could enjoy it so much.”

Aline Ciputa

Master of Education student

“Summer in Sydney is a unique experience. From petting kangaroos to attending tutorials – all of it has been a blast. I was able to befriend many locals and experience Sydney in a more authentic way, not just as a tourist. In the classroom I found the teaching style to be quite different from the US – classes are longer and meet less frequently. This taught me to think and learn more independently.”

Mara Crespi

Bachelor of Arts (international student from the United States)

“Winter School has been a lifesaver throughout my law degree. I have always needed to work part time during semester to support my studies and living costs, which meant dropping my study load from four to three units. Winter School was a means of making up my ‘dropped’ fourth units during the holidays. Now I’m on track to graduate at the end of this year – right on time.”

United States Studies Centre internship opportunity

USSC2605

US Studies Internship

Six credit points

This unit is available to students accepted into the United States Studies Centre’s internship program. You will have the opportunity to apply your knowledge to real-world problems through a unique internship placement in a US-based or affiliated business, government or non-government organisation located in Australia.

The unit provides academic support for students to discuss and refine research approaches and questions about issues arising from the placement.
