I would like to extend a warm welcome to each of you as you embark on postgraduate studies in law. Sydney Law School offers an extensive range of subjects at the postgraduate level enabling our students to develop specialist skills for practice in a globalised legal environment.

This guide sets out the details of the subjects we are offering in 2015, along with the many options available for specialisation.

New units of study this year include:

– Fiduciary Duties and Conflicts of Interest with The Hon. Justice Ashley Black
– Crime, Responsibility and Policy with Associate Professor Thomas Crofts
– Interpretation of Statutes and Other Texts with Chloe Burnett, Selborne Chambers, Sydney
– International Payments Law with Professor Benjamin Geva, Osgoode Hall Law School, Canada
– Trade Regulation, Health and the Environment with Dr Benn McGrady, Georgetown University Law School

We will continue to offer units that are in high demand such as Anti-Terrorism Law (taught by Professor Ben Saul); Fundamentals of Finance Law (Professor Sheelagh McCracken); and International Commercial Arbitration (Professor Luke Nottage).

Our offshore program provides an opportunity to experience overseas study in Asia and Europe. We will continue to deliver the South East Asia Winter School in Malaysia and Indonesia, as well as units of study in China and Japan.

Our Sydney Law School in Europe Program is set to continue, in locations including Cambridge, Berlin and London.

Many of our subjects will be taught intensively, with the majority delivered at our state-of-the-art building on the University’s Camperdown Campus.

We teach some of our professional units in the city at our St James campus on Philip Street. We have plans for redeveloping that site, so we are looking forward to newly refurbished city premises for our evening classes.

Best wishes,

Professor Joellen Riley
Dean, Sydney Law School

THE SYDNEY ADVANTAGE
SPECIAL FEATURES

Sydney Law School offers you one of Australia's largest and most specialised coursework and research programs in Law. In 2015, we are scheduled to deliver more than 150 units of study, with 80 percent offered in intensive mode.

We have one of the largest enrolments of postgraduate law research students in the country, with the vast majority of currently enrolled research students undertaking a Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) in law.

Whether you are a legal professional seeking to upgrade your existing Bachelor of Laws (LLB) or Juris Doctor (JD) with a Master of Laws (LLM), or a non-lawyer intending to acquire legal knowledge within a specialist sphere such as climate and environmental law or health law, Sydney Law School offers you a postgraduate legal education that is as flexible as it is comprehensive.

INTENSIVE STUDY
At Sydney, each postgraduate coursework unit of study in law comprises 24 to 26 contact hours. There are two methods of delivery: semester-length and intensive.

A semester-length unit is taught once a week on a weekday evening for two hours over 13 weeks. In comparison, intensive units are taught over four or five days, permitting a flexible and convenient method of coursework study for busy professionals.

An intensive unit may be taught in block mode, four or five days straight; or consecutive mode, where the unit is delivered over a consecutive period such as two days in one week and two days in a fortnight.

The intensive mode of study enables you to:

- organise your study around your work commitments in a more flexible manner
- undertake a Sydney Law School postgraduate coursework qualification even if you are based interstate or overseas, as you can complete assignment tasks through online submission
- complete your degree in a shorter time frame.

NON-LAWYER ENROLMENT
Sydney Law School is committed to the delivery of specialist postgraduate coursework programs in law for non-lawyers. With the exception of the Sydney LLM, Graduate Diploma in Law and the Graduate Diploma in Commercial Law, all our postgraduate coursework degrees are open to non-lawyers with a relevant bachelor's degree at an appropriate level.

Sydney Law School was one of the first institutions in Australia to develop and implement an introductory postgraduate coursework unit of study for non-lawyers: Legal Reasoning and the Common Law System, taught up to four times a year. This unit provides a comprehensive introduction to legal theory and methodology and is specifically designed for non-lawyers and international students with a civil law background.

International students can also attend a two-day bridging program for both law and non-law graduates, which serves as an effective academic and social orientation to Sydney Law School.

CROSS-INSTITUTIONAL STUDY
You may undertake units in postgraduate programs in other faculties at the University of Sydney or at other universities subject to approval by the Associate Dean (Postgraduate Coursework).

You will need to submit a formal application, detailing the academic content, attendance and assessment requirements of your proposed unit(s) of study. This application needs to be made to the Law School first, before you apply to the other faculty or institution.

If you are from another institution, you can also apply to study units at Sydney Law School upon approval from your home institution and the Sydney Law School.
PROFESSIONAL PLUS+ CONTINUING PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Professional Plus+ is the new home of Continuing Professional Development (CPD) at Sydney Law School. We offer numerous options to meet your CPD requirements, from semester-length to intensive units of study, offshore courses, seminars and conferences.

SINGLE UNIT STUDY WITHOUT ASSESSMENT
This study option allows you to attend lectures, receive reading materials and access the unit’s online e-learning website. You do not need to undertake assignments or examinations.

Units are offered by one of two methods:
– attendance one night per week for 13 weeks, between 6 and 8pm
– intensive units conducted over four or five days, from 9am to 5pm

Generally, under mandatory continuing legal education (MCLE) and CPD rules and guidelines, you may claim one ‘unit’ for each hour of attendance (refreshment breaks are not included).
Postgraduate units of study include 26 hours of lectures.
Course completion can be counted as CPD or MCLE points only. You will not receive a formal University of Sydney grade, academic transcript or credit towards future award courses.
Class sizes are limited; if they become fully subscribed, students enrolled in a degree program receive preference.

Fees
Single unit study without assessment costs $3200. Discounts to $3000 may be negotiated with individual firms for audit enrolments of 5+ students.

Further information
E law.events@sydney.edu.au

Fees
If you are seeking accreditation towards a degree (for which you need to complete formal assessment tasks) then you should apply for single unit study with assessment.

If you successfully complete the units and their assessments, you can count them towards a full degree such as a graduate diploma or master’s by coursework. If you subsequently apply for entry into a degree program.

Fees
The cost is $4175 per unit of study.

CPD SEMINARS
Law affects and is affected by all areas of life: the environment, health, family, indigenous affairs, our regional and international neighbours, social and criminal justice, employment and business, our system of government and constitution, to name but a few.

Our extensive program of lectures, conferences and seminars engage and inspire audiences on these topics, reinforcing the pervading role of legal research and practice in the community. These events are designed for lawyers, barristers and anyone with an interest in the diverse field of law.

In addition to the expertise featured by academic staff from the Sydney Law School and across the University of Sydney, our busy timetable of international and interstate visitors ensures a dynamic program of CPD events throughout the year.

Further information
E law.events@sydney.edu.au

ACCREDITATION
Our units of study and seminars meet the CPD requirements for a number of professional purposes, including:
– Australian-based lawyers, legal practitioners, solicitors and legal professionals
– Australian-based barristers
– Professionals non-law groups, including Institute of Chartered Accountants Australia (ICAA); Chartered Practising Accountants (CPA); Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA); Engineers Australia
– Some overseas-based professional accreditation societies including the Solicitors Regulation Authority (SRA) in the United Kingdom.

OFFSHORE OPPORTUNITIES

Experience overseas study through one of our offshore programs.

HIMALAYAN FIELD SCHOOL: DEVELOPMENT, LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS
Are you interested in the law and politics of development and human rights in developing countries? Would you like to see first-hand how international law assists poor and vulnerable communities overseas, including refugees and minority tribal groups? Have you ever wondered what it is like to work for a United Nations agency in the field?

The Sydney Centre for International Law (SCIL) offers the Himalayan Field School, conducted over two weeks inside Nepal, to explore the fascinating and difficult problems of development and human rights in the region.

The field school is an elective unit of study that can be credited towards an undergraduate or postgraduate degree at Sydney Law School. This unit exposes you to the role and limits of law in addressing acute problems of socioeconomic development and human rights facing a developing country like Nepal, which ranks among the world’s poorest countries.

THE KYOTO AND TOKYO SEMINARS IN JAPANESE LAW
The Kyoto and Tokyo Seminars offer a unique opportunity to study Japanese Law on an intensive basis in a global and socioeconomic context.

The aim of the program is to develop the general skills of comparative lawyers, to effectively and critically assess contemporary developments in the legal system of one of the world’s wealthiest democracies.

After an overview of comparative law techniques, Japanese legal history and its contemporary legal system, classes in Kyoto explore civil and criminal justice, politics and constitutionalism, government and the law, gender and law, and consumer law.

Classes in Tokyo focus on business law, outlining Japan’s economic policy and free trade agreements before examining corporate governance, labour law, finance and investment law, arbitration and alternative dispute resolution, and legal practice opportunities.

Instruction is from lecturers from Ritsumeikan University and other leading Japanese universities, as well as experts from Australia including Professor Luke Nottage of Sydney Law School, with guest lectures by prominent practitioners.

You will also attend a field trip in each seminar to learn about social, business and legal issues in Japanese society.
SOUTH EAST ASIA WINTER SCHOOL
This unit introduces you to the legal systems of South East Asia, focusing upon Indonesia and Malaysia – both countries with rich legal traditions and complex legal systems.

The course covers various areas of law, including commercial law, human rights, Islamic, customary law and constitutional law, and examines the effect of colonialism on law.

It is taught with the cooperation of Gadjah Mada University, Yogyakarta, Indonesia and ZICOlaw, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

SYDNEY LAW SCHOOL IN EUROPE
The Sydney Law School in Europe program offers a range of subjects in prestigious European locations. Courses are taught by specialist academics or adjunct faculty from Sydney Law School in conjunction with leading international specialist academics or lawyers.

Each subject is taught intensively over four to five days, with assessment due some weeks after the course. Past venues include:
- Robinson College, Cambridge, UK
- Institute of Advanced Legal Studies, University of London, UK
- Clare College, Cambridge, UK
- Royal Academy Arts and Sciences, Amsterdam, Holland
- Humboldt Law School, Berlin, Germany

For more information, please visit: sydney.edu.au/law/LLMinEurope

THE SHANGHAI WINTER SCHOOL
The Shanghai Winter School is an intensive three-week introduction to Chinese law. It gives you an opportunity to study, on an intensive basis, the laws and legal system of China while experiencing life in that country.

The Winter School is jointly organised by Sydney Law School and the East China University of Politics and Law (ECUPL) and is held on the campus of ECUPL in Shanghai, China. Lectures are given in English, by Chinese professors, and the program is supervised by academic staff from Sydney Law School. A representative of the Law School will be in residence in Shanghai to oversee the course and assist you.

The Winter School stimulates interest in and analysis of Chinese legal styles, attitudes and structures, including traditional Chinese legal values and processes, as significant factors in the understanding of modern Chinese law and the legal system.

Sydney Law School has eight research centres and institutes that inform and reflect our postgraduate coursework and research programs. They provide a conduit for specialist knowledge for all audiences, including the academic and professional community as well as the general public.

AUSTRALIAN CENTRE FOR CLIMATE AND ENVIRONMENTAL LAW
The Australian Centre for Climate and Environmental Law (ACCEL) is an internationally recognised centre at the forefront of this field of law. ACCEL’s objectives are to encourage, promote and support innovative and outstanding scholarship including through teaching, research, consultancies and public interest advocacy. These objectives are pursued within the University of Sydney, with other related centres in Australia and overseas, with the legal profession, and with the wider community both in Australia and internationally.

Members of ACCEL are active researchers and support the teaching of one of the largest postgraduate Climate and Environmental Law programs in the world. ACCEL also publishes the Asia Pacific Journal of Environmental Law and hosts conferences and seminars each year.

CENTRE FOR ASIAN AND PACIFIC LAW
The Centre for Asian and Pacific Law at the University of Sydney (CAPLUS) is a leading centre for the teaching and research of law and legal systems in Asia and the Pacific. Its members have legal expertise in a wide variety of Asian and Pacific jurisdictions, particularly China, Japan, Indonesia and Malaysia.

The centre offers courses on a wide variety of legal issues in these countries, including commercial law, investment, constitutional law, human rights, land law, tax and tax policy, environmental law, labour law, customary law, Islamic law, law enforcement institutions, and dispute resolution.

CENTRE FOR HEALTH GOVERNANCE, LAW AND ETHICS
The Centre for Health Governance, Law and Ethics builds upon the excellence in health law research and teaching within Sydney Law School. Academic staff affiliated with the centre are active in teaching in the Law School’s extensive coursework offerings in health law at undergraduate and postgraduate levels.

The centre is active in organising seminars and conferences on topics of contemporary relevance to health law and ethics and in building links with academic, community and professional organisations in Australia and overseas.
INSTITUTE OF CRIMINOLOGY
The Sydney Institute of Criminology is an internationally recognised centre of criminological expertise. It publishes the journal Current Issues in Criminal Justice and a series of books in the areas of crime and criminal justice.

The institute’s objectives include public education and engagement, the presentation of public and professional seminars, the provision of media commentary and the creation and maintenance of research networks.

Researchers within the institute are involved in a broad range of activities from the evaluation of criminal justice and crime prevention interventions to groundbreaking original research.

The institute is within Sydney Law School, but draws on the academic areas of law, sociology, psychology and cultural studies, as well as on the contributions of members of the legal profession and various government bodies.

JULIUS STONE INSTITUTE OF JURISPRUDENCE
The Julius Stone Institute of Jurisprudence was established in 1999 with the assistance of funds raised from and by the alumni and friends of Sydney Law School, in particular from those who were students of Professor Stone or who had worked with, or been influenced by him.

The institute serves as a focus for theoretical scholarship in Australia, continuing the Law School’s strong leadership in this field. It recognises and celebrates Stone’s outstanding contribution to legal scholarship.

The institute is designed to keep faith with Professor Stone’s commitment to the importance of legal theory in its broad sense, which includes philosophical reflection, sociological theory and comparative enquiry.

It serves as a focus for new and imaginative work, not only at the University of Sydney, but across Australia. It also serves as a vehicle for extending and deepening Australian legal culture’s engagement with legal theory and issues of social justice, and for projecting Australia’s own contributions internationally. It stands as a celebration of Professor Stone’s commitment to legal scholarship and law reform.

ROSS PARSONS CENTRE FOR COMMERCIAL, CORPORATE AND TAXATION LAW
The objectives of the Ross Parsons Centre are to undertake, promote and support innovative and important scholarship, including teaching, research, consultancy and advocacy in all areas of commercial, corporate and taxation law.

The centre is active in undergraduate and postgraduate courses, conferences and seminars, sponsoring visits from international and Australian academics, encouraging research and building links with other institutions with similar goals.

sydney.edu.au/law/parsons

SYDNEY CENTRE FOR INTERNATIONAL LAW
The Sydney Centre for International Law (SCIL) is a centre of excellence in research, public policy and teaching in international law. Since its establishment in 2003, SCIL has emerged as a hub of international legal thought and debate in the Asia-Pacific region, building upon Sydney Law School’s well-recognised history of innovation in the international legal field.

SCIL has made significant contributions to the teaching of international law and enhancing the student experience, including through its Himalayan Field School and internship program. In research, SCIL members are grappling with some of the world’s thorniest problems and doing so from a range of perspectives. Our approach is collaborative; we remain in constant conversation with colleagues and policymakers around the globe.

CONSTITUTIONAL REFORM UNIT
The Constitutional Reform Unit (CRU) was established in 2011. It is based in Sydney Law School at the University of Sydney, but is an interdisciplinary body that draws on expertise across the University as appropriate.

CRU provides the objective research and analysis needed to underpin and inform public debate upon proposals for constitutional reform in Australia at both the commonwealth and state levels. These include proposals for formal amendments to the written Constitutions of the commonwealth and the states, in addition to constitutional reforms in the broader context of reforms to the institutions of government – the Parliament, the Executive and the Judiciary. It also provides constitutional commentary on current controversies in its blog ‘Constitutional Critique’.

CRU is a non-partisan body that does not advocate or oppose particular reforms. Instead, its aim is to publish rigorous reports which:
1. explain the background to reform proposals
2. outline the history and operation of current constitutional provisions
3. set out comparative material as to how such matters are dealt with in similar countries
4. explain the options for reform, and
5. analyse how they would fit in with the rest of the Constitution and what their likely consequences may be.

The reports and commentary published on CRU’s website provide a resource for the media and the public, as well as for the advocates and critics of reform. The objective is not to achieve or prevent constitutional reforms, but rather to raise the level of public debate, so that constitutional reform issues can be decided on their merits, not on misconceptions and incorrect assumptions.

“I enrolled in the Master of Criminology after years of working in criminal justice and crime prevention. It was very refreshing to step back, explore emerging research and consider new approaches. The work I invested in this course really improved my practice, and enabled me to embark on a new career path with confidence.”

“After becoming a personal injury lawyer, I realised my passion was for medical law. Through this postgraduate degree, not only is my desire for academic enquiry satisfied, but my critical legal thinking skills have also broadened substantially. My professional network has expanded to include inspiring experts in the field.”

INTERNATIONAL VISITORS

Sydney Law School welcomes the opportunity to host distinguished scholars from overseas and around Australia.

The many exceptional people who visit Sydney Law School create a valuable opportunity for the exchange of ideas and research, and facilitate ongoing national and international research linkages and collaborations.

Our visitors:
– present their work in the weekly Faculty Seminar Series, a forum for both guests and members of the faculty to showcase their work
– contribute to the seminar programs of one of our eight research centres and institutes
– participate in the Legal Professional Development program.

RECENT AND FUTURE VISITORS
The following distinguished scholars have visited or are scheduled to visit the Sydney Law School.

Professor Owen Anderson, College of Law, University of Oklahoma, USA
Owen L. Anderson is the Eugene Kuntz Chair in Law in Oil, Gas and Natural Resources and Director of the John B. Turner LLM. Program in Energy, Natural Resources & Indigenous Peoples Law at the University of Oklahoma (OU) College of Law. He teaches various oil and gas law courses at OU, including international petroleum transactions. He also regularly teaches at the University of Texas and at other universities on six continents. In 2011, he received the Clyde O. Martz Award for Excellence in Teaching from the Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation. He has authored more than 100 articles and is a co-author of International Petroleum Transactions; Hemingway Oil and Gas Law and Taxation; Cases and Materials on Oil & Gas Law; and the annual supplements to Kuntz on Oil and Gas Law. He is a contributing author to Waters and Water Rights and International Petroleum Exploration and Exploitation Agreements; an editor of the Oil and Gas Reporter; and Editor in Chief of the Texas Title Standards. He is a member of the Association of International Petroleum Negotiators; a Trustee of the Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation; a Trustee of the Energy and Mineral Law Foundation; and a member of the Advisory Board for the Institute for Energy Law at the Center for American and International Law. Professor Anderson is a member of the American Law Institute, the Association of International Petroleum Negotiators, the American Association of Professional Landmen, the Energy Bar Association, the International Bar Association, the American Bar Association, the Interstate Oil & Gas Compact Commission, the Oklahoma City Mineral Lawyers Society, and the North Dakota, Oklahoma, and Texas bars. He is a Life Member of the Uniform Laws Commission.

Professor Dr Marc Bungenberg, University of Siegen, Germany
Marc Bungenberg is Acting Professor for Public Law and European Law at the University of Siegen. He studied law in Hanover and Lausanne (LLM 1995). He received his doctorate in law (Hanover 2005) and his Habilitation (Jena 2006). His main fields of research are European and international economic law (especially CCP, state aids, procurement and international investment law).

Jan Job de Vries Robbé, the Netherlands
Jan Job (JJ) de Vries Robbé is senior counsel at the Dutch Development Bank ‘FMO’. He started his career in the Netherlands at a top tier law firm working in international finance and subsequently worked in-house at an investment bank which pioneered the use of securitisation and credit derivatives. He then moved to Australia, where he worked in structured finance at a major law firm, including a secondment in the derivatives team of a local bank. After returning to the Netherlands, he changed course to development finance and teaching. He has published widely on structured finance and lectures at the universities of Amsterdam, Melbourne and Sydney.

Professor Lawrence Gostin, Georgetown University, Washington DC, USA
An internationally acclaimed scholar, Lawrence Gostin is Associate Dean (Research and Academic Programs) and the Linda D. and Timothy J. O’Neill Professor of Global Health Law at the Georgetown University Law Center, where he directs the O’Neill Institute for National and Global Health Law. Dean Gostin is also Professor of Public Health at the Johns Hopkins University and Director of the Center for Law and the Public’s Health at Johns Hopkins and Georgetown Universities – a Collaborating Centre of the World Health Organization (WHO) and the Center for Disease Control and Prevention. Dean Gostin is Visiting Professor of Public Health (Faculty of Medical Sciences) and Research Fellow (Centre for Socio-Legal Studies) at Oxford University. He is the Health Law and Ethics Editor, Contributing Writer, and Columnist for the Journal of the American Medical Association. In 2007, the Director General of the World Health Organization appointed Dean Gostin to the International Health Regulations (IHR) Roster of Experts and the Expert Advisory Panel on Mental Health.

Professor Kent Greenfield, Boston College Law School, USA

Kent Greenfield is Professor of Law and Law Fund Research Scholar at Boston College Law School, where he teaches and writes in the areas of business law, constitutional law, decision making theory, legal theory, and economic analysis of law. He is the past Chair of the Section on Business Associations of the American Association of Law Schools. Greenfield has lectured in 34 states, nine countries, and at nearly 100 institutions (including Harvard, Yale, Brown, Stanford, the University of Chicago, the University of Michigan, and the London School of Economics).

Greenfield was named B.C. Law Teacher of the Year for 2003–04, a recognition bestowed by the Law Students Association on vote of the entire student body. He was also awarded the Emil Slizewski Award for outstanding teaching, given by the graduating class of 2004. Greenfield has been a Law Fund Research Scholar, a recognition of his scholarly contributions, since 2003. He is the founder and president of the Forum for Academic and Institutional Rights (FAIR), an association of three dozen law schools and other academic institutions organised to fight for academic freedom and against discrimination. Before joining the faculty in 1995, Greenfield served as a law clerk to Justice David H. Souter, of the United States Supreme Court, and to Judge Levin H. Campbell, of the United States Court of Appeals for the First Circuit. He also worked at the law firm of Covington & Burling, in Washington, D.C., and as a corporate policy advisor at Levi Strauss & Co., in San Francisco.

Associate Professor Ian Lee, University of Toronto, Canada

Ian B Lee is an associate professor in the Faculty of Law, University of Toronto. After graduating from the University of Toronto with an LLB in 1994, he clerked with Justice Claire L’Heureux-Dubé of the Supreme Court of Canada and Justice Mark MacGuigan of the Federal Court of Appeal, and later served as a legal researcher with the Privy Council Office. He received an LLM from the Harvard Law School in 1998, and went on to practise with Sullivan & Cromwell LLP in Paris, France, and New York, before joining the University of Toronto in 2003. His teaching and research interests are in the areas of constitutional law, corporate law and European Union law.

Professor Jinyan Li, Osgoode Hall Law School, York University, Canada

Professor Jinyan Li served as Interim Dean of Osgoode Hall Law School from 1 July 2009 to 30 June 2010. She is Chair of Osgoode’s Admissions Committee for 2013–14, and a former Chair of Osgoode Faculty Council, the Faculty Recruitment Committee and the Upper-Year Curriculum Reform Working Group. Professor Li joined Osgoode in 1999, having previously taught for eight years on the Faculty of Law at the University of Western Ontario. She was also a Visiting Scholar at Harvard Law School, a Greenwoods and Freehills Visiting Professor of International Taxation at the University of Sydney, Australia, and a Visiting Professor at Kenneth Wang Law School, Suzhou University, China. She has served as a legal consultant to the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), the Auditor General of Canada, the Department of Justice of Canada, as well as several leading law firms. She was also a member of an advisory committee for the Minister of National Revenue on the issue of e-commerce taxation. In 2004, she won the teaching excellence award at Osgoode. In 1999, she received the Douglas J. Sherbaniuk Distinguished Writing Award. Professor Li, who became a full professor in 2006, has been awarded numerous research grants, including two from the Social Science and Humanities Research Council of Canada. Professor Li’s research interests include taxation law and policy, social security law, pension law, and Chinese law.

Professor John Lowe, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas, USA

The New Law School Building is a flagship building. It creates a gateway to the University from the city and represents the dawn of a new era for law teaching at the University of Sydney.

The building provides prestigious and well-equipped facilities as befits one of Australia’s leading law schools and offers the highest quality teaching, learning and research resources for students and staff.

The eight levels accommodate the academic and administrative staff, together with a range of research centres and institutes. The design incorporates collaborative spaces, meeting and conference rooms.

There are a total of 23 teaching spaces, ranging from 300- and 100-seat lecture theatres, through to 60-, 56-, and 24-seat seminar facilities to suit a wide range of teaching requirements.

The New Law School Building also accommodates a Moot Court, the Law Library and a spacious forecourt.
“Sydney Law School is the perfect place for me to learn and improve my legal skills away from my home country of Vietnam. I’ve made new friends and met great teachers who want to share their legal experience. As a student here, I’m not just academically engaged – I’m growing into a more responsible person.”

ELLY NGUYEN
MASTER OF INTERNATIONAL LAW
RESEARCH PROGRAMS

Sydney Law School offers four research programs designed to equip candidates for careers in areas including advanced research, policy development, public service, tertiary teaching or professional leadership. Our programs will enable you to develop and acquire sophisticated skills in research and analysis, honed through work on a topic of your choice that expands legal thinking and understanding.

Doctor of Philosophy (PhD)
This degree is obtained upon successful completion of a thesis of 100,000 words, which must make a substantially original contribution to the subject concerned. The course is taken by a process of supervised research and writing on an approved topic. Candidates must undertake the units Legal Research 1, 2 and 3.

Doctor of Juridical Studies (SJD)
The SJD caters for candidates not attracted to a PhD by thesis alone, but for those who seek higher degree studies in law that extend beyond the Master of Laws (LLM) by coursework. The SJD degree links its major supervised thesis of 75,000 words with three units of LLM coursework and the units Legal Research 1, 2 and 3, with the thesis assessed at doctoral level. Such a balance of research and coursework provides a solid knowledge base for the chosen area of expertise.

Master of Laws (LLM) by research
The LLM is awarded on the basis of a supervised thesis of 50,000 words. The thesis must make a substantial contribution to the field in which it is written. Candidates must also undertake the unit Legal Research 1.

Master of Criminology (MCrim) by research
The MCrim is awarded on the basis of a supervised thesis of 50,000 words. The thesis must make a substantial contribution to the field in which it is written. Candidates often explore aspects involving criminal law, forensic psychology, drug policy and the law, gender and race relations, youth and crime, policing in society, and other social and cultural aspects of criminal justice. Candidates must also undertake the unit Legal Research 1.

RESEARCH AREAS
Sydney Law School offers research candidates the opportunity to pursue their interests in a number of major research areas, including:

- Asia and Pacific Law
- Climate and Environmental Law
- Constitutional and Public Law
- Contract, Commercial and Obligation Law
- Corporate Law
- Criminal Law and Criminology
- Employment Law
- Equity, Property and Family Law
- Health Governance Law and Ethics
- Intellectual Property
- International Law
- Jurisprudence
- Litigation and Dispute Resolution
- Media Law
- Taxation Law.

THE POSTGRADUATE RESEARCH EXPERIENCE IN LAW
Undertaking postgraduate research is both rewarding and challenging. As a prospective student, there are several questions to ask yourself before you begin the application process.

Topic selection and project design
What topic will sustain your interest and motivation for the duration of your research degree? What skills are demanded by your specific project? Do you need to fill gaps in your knowledge or skills base in order to undertake the proposed project?

Selection of a supervisor
Does my proposed supervisor have a strong interest and expertise in my chosen field of research? Is my proposed supervisor someone I feel I can constructively work with?
Balancing the demands of postgraduate research against other potentially conflicting demands such as work, financial and family responsibilities.

Some common challenges that may be faced by postgraduate research students include:

– Maintaining motivation and momentum in their research work.
– Feeling overwhelmed by the demands of their research at times and at some point feeling isolated and stressed by these demands. It is important to seek help with stress or burnout or any other problems that might arise as early as possible.
– Developing key skills early on in your research – one of the most important is the skill of writing a thesis. Writing a thesis, particularly a doctoral thesis, is likely to be very different and be a much more substantial writing exercise compared to any you have previously undertaken in undergraduate studies or in the course of working as a lawyer.

It may be helpful at the outset to think about the postgraduate experience as a “process.” Your proposed research thesis is likely to evolve and be shaped and reshaped throughout your candidature as you evolve into an expert in your chosen field.

You may wish to discuss these issues with your (potential) supervisor(s). For more information about postgraduate research in law, and a list of useful resources, please visit our website: sydney.edu.au/law/fstudent/research/research_experience.shtml

HOW TO APPLY
Please refer to the application section at the end of this guide (see pages 58–63).

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS FOR RESEARCH DEGREES
Before submitting an Expression of Interest Form, you need to ensure that you are academically qualified to undertake a program of research.

If not, you should instead consider taking a coursework program.

There are three main conditions of admission to a research degree, namely:
1. Academic qualifications
2. Research and publication experience
3. Suitability of the proposed course of study and research.

ACADEMIC QUALIFICATIONS
The minimum academic entry requirements for research degrees are as follows.

PhD
Master’s degree or a bachelor’s degree with first or second class honours from the University of Sydney (or equivalent qualification).

SJD
Master of Laws (LLM) or Bachelor of Laws (LLB) with first or second class honours from the University of Sydney or equivalent qualification

LLM by research
Bachelor of Laws (LLB) with first or second class honours from the University of Sydney or equivalent qualification.

MCrim by research
Bachelor’s degree with first or second class honours from the University of Sydney or equivalent qualification.

Note: Applicants may be admitted to a research program based on qualifications which the Postgraduate Research Committee considers to be equivalent to an honours degree.

RESEARCH AND PUBLICATION EXPERIENCE
In addition to academic achievements, the applicant must also submit satisfactory evidence of training and the ability to pursue and complete the proposed program within the minimum course duration. This may be demonstrated for example by showing the successful completion of a sustained piece of research in an earlier degree program, scholarly publications, or sustained research in a professional capacity (for example, an applicant who has worked as a research assistant on a successfully completed project), or has experience in some other research-related endeavour.

SUITABILITY OF THE PROPOSED COURSE OF STUDY AND RESEARCH
The proposal must be:
– suitable in scope and standard for the masters/doctorate
– one that the applicant is competent to undertake
– one for which supervision and facilities can be properly provided.
“The LLM provided an excellent academic foundation for the work I undertake as a deputy director of a peak body in the community legal centre sector. The array of subjects, expertise of the academic staff and opportunities for academic engagement made the experience highly fulfilling, both personally and professionally.”

AMANDA ALFORD
MASTER OF LAWS
The LLM is a flexible and highly sought-after degree that caters specifically for the needs of the legal profession and law graduates. You may choose from the entire range of units on offer in our postgraduate program, permitting candidates to tailor a program to suit their academic and professional needs.

Sydney Law School’s postgraduate coursework program is one of Australia’s largest, with more than 150 units of study taught each year. Sydney caters to approximately 21 areas of specialisation in law, with units taught by our own experts as well as overseas visitors.

Units are taught intensively or over an entire semester. If you are a full-time student, it’s possible to complete your LLM in one year by finishing eight units of study. If you are a part-time student, you have a maximum of six years to complete your degree.

FLEXIBLE OPTIONS

The Sydney LLM offers the following key features:

Complete your LLM via semester-length units of study

Each unit of study offered as part of the Sydney LLM comprises 24 to 26 contact hours plus assessment. The semester-length model allows you to study a subject once a week for two hours over 12 to 13 weeks. Classes are generally taught on a weeknight from 6 to 8pm. Assessment may vary, but it generally includes either written assignments or take-home or sit-down examinations.

Essentially, the semester-length model offers the convenience and stability of regular once-a-week classes, enabling you to comfortably fit study in with work commitments.

Complete your LLM via intensive units of study

The intensive mode of study is a popular and flexible way to fast-track your LLM. It condenses the 24 to 26 contact hours of each unit into four to five days. Units are taught via block mode: four to five days in a row; or consecutive mode: four to five days spread over the semester.

Following class attendance, you need to complete the required assessment which may, in the case of written assignments, be lodged online.

Complete your LLM in one area of study or combine disciplines

The great strength of the Sydney LLM is that it enables you to choose from the entire range of postgraduate coursework units of study offered in any given year by Sydney Law School, an opportunity not provided in any of our other postgraduate coursework programs.

Effectively, you may select all eight units of study in one area, such as International Law or Corporate, Securities and Finance Law. Alternatively, or you may like to combine fields of study by selecting units in Commercial Law alongside those in Climate and Environmental Law, for instance.

While Sydney Law School offers more than 20 primary specialist coursework study areas, we also teach a number of specialised and exclusive subjects.
Complete a single unit of study to count towards an LLM
You do not have to commit to an entire program straight away – you can just study a single unit of study. With a maximum time of six months to completion, you can start off with just one unit. Later, you could continue your enrolment, or delay your study until another unit of interest is taught. As long as you complete the assessment, that unit can later count towards an award course such as a graduate diploma or master’s.

Complete units of study in Europe, China, Japan, Nepal and Southeast Asia
As a Sydney LLM student, you can enrol in offshore units of study. These include the units taught as part of the Sydney Law School in Europe program, and ones that are part of other programs such as the Shanghai Winter School. Whether the unit is taught in London, Cambridge, Berlin, Shanghai, Tokyo, Southeast Asia or Nepal, each unit you complete counts towards your LLM.

Additional costs may be involved. For more details, visit our website: sydney.edu.au/law

Complete units of study taught by external international and domestic experts
Sydney LLM units are not only taught by our full-time academic staff, but by international and domestic experts from other institutions and the legal profession.

Complete the Graduate Diploma in Law and upgrade to the LLM
You may like to start out with a graduate diploma, which consists of four units of study. With approval you can then upgrade to a master’s degree. Many of our students commence with a Graduate Diploma in Law (GradDipLaw) and then enhance their qualifications by transferring to the LLM. With only four units of study remaining to qualify, it’s a decision worth considering.

MASTER OF LAWS (LLM)
Structure
Credit points required to complete: 48
Units of study are worth either six or 12 credit points. The minimum course duration is one year for full-time candidates, and two years for part-time candidates.

GRADUATE DIPLOMA IN LAW (GradDipLaw)
Structure
Credit points required to complete: 24
If you do not wish to commit to a full master’s program, but have a law degree and are interested in studying our coursework units, you may want to consider our Graduate Diploma in Law (GradDipLaw).

In line with our flexible study policy and with faculty approval, you may later upgrade to a Master of Laws (LLM) if you wish to undertake further study. The minimum course duration is six months for full-time candidates, and one year for part-time candidates. If you are a Diploma in Law (DipLaw) graduate from the Law Extension Committee, you are eligible to apply for this qualification and then upgrade to the LLM following approval.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS
To be eligible to apply for the GradDipLaw or LLM by coursework, you need to have an undergraduate degree in law or equivalent qualification at an appropriate level.

UNITS OF STUDY
If you are enrolled in either the Master of Laws (LLM) or Graduate Diploma in Law (GradDipLaw), you can choose the prescribed number of units from the entire range. This means you can either concentrate on one area or combine your interests in a number of fields.

“I found the LLM incredibly useful to my daily practice of law. Subjects are taught by experts in their respective fields – not just academics but senior barristers and foreign legal professionals who bring extensive practical knowledge to their teaching. This makes the subject matter both versatile and comprehensive.”
SPECIALIST COURSEWORK
PROGRAMS

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW AND POLICY
Master of Administrative Law and Policy (MALP)

The Master of Administrative Law and Policy (MALP) aims to develop an understanding of the relationship between law, and the analysis and implementation of public policy. The values inherent in administrative law and those of public administration are examined together with the practical aspects of the application of the law.

An invaluable feature of the course is the opportunity for public administrators specialising as lawyers or as policy analysts to learn together within the disciplines of law, government and social policy. The program also provides knowledge of objectives associated with public policy and of appropriate methodological approaches to analysing the social and economic effects of reforms.

MALP is unique in terms of its content and delivery. Administered by Sydney Law School, it provides candidates with the opportunity to complement the study of law with study in the University’s Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, and Faculty of Education and Social Work.

STRUCTURE
48 credit points to complete, including three core units, Administrative Law; Public Policy; and Policy Making, Power and Politics (offered by the Department of Government and International Relations). Students without a law degree must also complete the unit of study, Legal Reasoning and the Common Law System.*

For an up-to-date list of the units of study currently available for this degree, please refer to our handbook: sydney.edu.au/handbooks/law

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS
An undergraduate degree at an appropriate level in economics, government, social work, law or other relevant discipline.

BUSINESS LAW
Master of Business Law (MBL)

This is a specialist qualification in business law and regulation. The program offers candidates the opportunity to select from the entire range of units offered through Sydney Law School's commercial law, corporate, securities and finance law, international business law, international taxation and taxation programs.

The MBL reflects the growing importance of legal literacy and business law expertise among non-lawyers working in business, finance, commercial and corporate environments.

It also provides a master’s level qualification that builds upon the completion of professional accountancy qualifications.

Candidates can choose from up to 70 units of study in any given year, the largest choice of any coursework master’s at Sydney Law School besides the Master of Laws (LLM) and the Master of Global Law (MGlobL). Candidates enrolling in Master of Taxation (MTax) units must complete the unit of study, Introduction to Australian Business Tax and/or any other prerequisites. Candidates may also have to complete Legal Reasoning and the Common Law System if they do not have a degree in accountancy or if they have not completed legal studies in a business or commerce degree within a common law jurisdiction.

STRUCTURE

Sydney Law School was the first faculty in Australia to teach a unit in Energy and Climate Law. We also pioneered a master’s degree in Environmental Science and Law, in conjunction with the Faculty of Science. This degree is an innovative and unique program involving interdisciplinary study across the fields of science and law.

Climate and environmental law is one of the most rapidly expanding areas of specialisation in the law. At Sydney Law School, this expansion is reflected in an abundance and variety of units for the study of Climate and Environmental Law. As the provider of Australia’s largest postgraduate program in this field of study, we offer candidates the opportunity to study their chosen areas of specialisation in the format that suits them best.

The program is characterised by a wide range of options offered by Sydney Law School, including under the Sydney Law School in Europe Program and the opportunity to take units from other related disciplines.

The depth and innovation of the program is complemented by its well-reputed academic staff and visiting lecturers. The program includes an international faculty which brings experts from various countries to lecture in specialist units.

The program is designed to meet the needs of both Australian environmental specialists and those from other countries. Non-lawyers working in the environmental field, or proposing to do so, may enrol in the program. Sydney Law School offers a foundation unit in Legal Reasoning and the Common Law System to assist non-lawyers in their studies.

STRUCTURE
GradDipEnvLaw: 24 credit points to complete, including the core unit, Environmental Law and Policy, and two to three electives chosen from the range of relevant units on offer. Students without a law degree must also complete the unit, Legal Reasoning and the Common Law System.

COMMERCIAL LAW
Graduate Diploma in Commercial Law (GradDipCommLaw)

Sydney Law School’s Commercial Law program is one of immense array, which not only caters for the needs of modern commercial practice but also provides considerable scope to pursue specialised interests. Units from the commercial law program may be selected as part of a general program or combined to provide a more specific specialist area such as Intellectual Property Law or Banking and Finance Law.

A suite of units covering various aspects on contract law is available to lawyers. The program also offers candidates the opportunity to fine-tune their expertise in other areas. The corporate area of commercial law involves study of fundraising, corporate governance, and takeovers and reconstructions. Units in international business law, commercial arbitration, trade regulation, maritime law and study in Asia-Pacific legal systems meet the demands of international law.

Corporate, Securities and Finance Law
Graduate Diploma in Corporate, Securities and Finance Law (GradDipCorpLaw)

Sydney Law School offers an innovative and internationally recognised program in Law and Business. Students interested in business law can choose from a wide array of courses in the areas of corporate governance and regulation; corporate finance and securities law; acquisitions and restructuring and insolvency; and international business law.

The aim of the program is to equip students with expertise to practise business law in a global environment. Some units, such as Fundamentals of the Board and Directors’ Duties are of particular relevance to non-executive directors. In addition, Sydney Law School hosts a vibrant and continuous conference and seminar program, including eminent Australian and international speakers.

The director of the program is Professor Jennifer Hill, who is a leading corporate and business law scholar. She has taught at numerous US law schools, including Vanderbilt University, Cornell and University of Virginia, and has strong international links. Jennifer is a Fellow of the Australian Academy of Law and a Research Associate of the European Corporate Governance Institute (ECGI). She is also a member of the Business Law Council of Australia, Corporations Law Committee; the Advisory Council of the Centre for International Finance and Regulation (CIFR); and the Editorial Board of International Corporate Law and Financial Regulation for Cambridge University Press.

The Law and Business Program is taught by a distinguished and experienced group of resident, adjunct, and international faculty members. In addition to Professor Hill, resident faculty members include: Mr Fady Aoun; Professor Vivienne Bath; Associate Professor Chester Brown; Dr Olivia Dixon; Dr Salim Farrar; Professor Sheelagh McCracken; Professor Luke Nottage; and Professor John Stumbles. Adjunct faculty members comprise a range of experts in the business law field, including judges, barristers, solicitors and regulators.

Recent international faculty members included: Mr Ron Barusch, former Partner of Skadden Arps and Wall Street Journal columnist; Mr JJ de Vries Robbé, FMO (Netherlands); Associate Professor Ian Lee, University of Toronto, Canada; Professor Kent Greenfield, Boston College Law School, USA; Professor Frank Partnoy, George E Barrett Professor of Law and Finance and Co-Director, Center for Corporate and Securities Law, University of San Diego, USA; and Dr Peter Harris, University of Cambridge, UK.

Students can undertake units to gain qualifications with respect to a range of degrees and diplomas offered by Sydney Law School. They can also enrol in single units as part of their professional development under the Legal Professional Development program (LPD). Single unit enrolment students are not required to undertake assignments or examinations.

“My internship towards the end of my Master of Criminology was an invaluable opportunity to see how crime prevention strategies are implemented. It brought to life a lot of the theory I was studying. This degree was part of a career change, and it ultimately helped me to get a great job in my chosen field.”

AMANDA RUTHERFORD
MASTER OF CRIMINOLOGY
Contemporary questions about crime and control find discussion in theoretical and policy contexts. The crime problem in today’s Australia is explored and compared within a wide range of local and global community concerns. Postgraduate criminology at Sydney Law School is for anyone with an interest in crime, punishment and criminal justice.

As criminology involves the law, associated social sciences, research and social policy, students from these backgrounds are welcome. The program offers the opportunity to study under Australia’s experts in criminal law, criminal justice policy, juvenile and restorative justice, forensic psychology, crime and indigenous issues, international and comparative criminal justice, and policing. It recognises the importance of research, policy and applied learning.

The cutting-edge contemporary focus of the study provided will equip students for occupations within criminal justice agencies including public and private, social welfare, psychology and psychiatry, public policy, social research and legal practice. The program is supported by the University of Sydney’s Institute of Criminology and candidates can participate in its many activities including public seminars, specialist training and research initiatives.

CRIMINOLOGY

Master of Criminology (MCRM)

Graduate Diploma in Criminology (GradDipCrim)

The most established of its kind in Australia, Sydney Law School’s criminology program is designed to expose students to critical understandings at the heart of criminology. A broad field of interdisciplinary units are presented by some of Australia’s leading criminologists, from which a challenging study experience can be constructed.

STRUCTURE

GradDipCrim: 24 credit points to complete, including two core units, Crime Research and Policy and Explaining Crime, and two electives chosen from the range of relevant units on offer. Diploma students may seek permission to undertake one non-prescribed elective unit (ie, another unit offered by the Faculty of Law or by another faculty).

MCRM: 48 credit points to complete, including three core units, Crime Research and Policy, Explaining Crime and Criminal Liability (students with a law degree are exempt from Criminal Liability). Five to six electives chosen from the range of relevant units on offer. Master’s students may also seek permission to undertake two non-prescribed elective units (ie, other units offered by the Faculty of Law or by another faculty).

For an up-to-date list of the units of study currently available for these degrees, please refer to our handbook: sydney.edu.au/handbooks/law

GLOBAL LAW
Master of Global Law (MGlobL)

Global law encompasses not just international law, but an approach to law that is transnational in scope, taking in the domestic laws of different countries, and integrating an understanding of domestic regimes within the broader context of international laws, instruments and institutions.

Sydney Law School’s Master of Global Law (MGlobL) provides a uniquely flexible pathway to a global legal or business career. The first program of its kind in Australia, candidates gain a transnational understanding of law through the requirement to enrol in units in international law, comparative and foreign law, and domestic (Australian) law.

With over 130 units of study offered in any given year, this flexible structure allows candidates to specialise in their preferred topic areas, while becoming familiar with forms of regulation and the substantive laws of different legal systems, and preparing for legal and business careers that are transnational and extend beyond Australia’s borders. This program is targeted to applicants from a legal, business and/or relevant professional background. Other applicants will be considered, based on the relevance of their prior field of study, the level of merit of their prior degree, and relevant professional experience.

STRUCTURE
The Master of Global Law requires the completion of 48 credit points, equivalent to eight units of study. Most of the units on offer carry a value of six credit points each. Students choose from the entire range of relevant units on offer, but must choose at least one unit from each of the three groupings:
– Comparative and Foreign Law
– Domestic (Australian) Law
– International Law

For an up-to-date list of the units of study currently available for this degree, please refer to our handbook: sydney.edu.au/handbooks/law

The Master of Health Law (MHL) is a flexible, specialist postgraduate qualification in health law providing wide-ranging interdisciplinary coverage of contemporary legal and social issues in health care. The Graduate Diploma in Health Law (GradDipHL) provides a shorter postgraduate qualification in health law. The Graduate Diploma in Public Health Law (GradDipPubHL) provides a specialist postgraduate qualification focusing on laws and legal strategies for protecting and promoting public health. Graduates from either diploma may apply to upgrade to the Master of Health Law (MHL).

Those with a particular interest in public health law may either enrol in the GradDipPubHL, or alternatively choose public health elective units within the MHL.

The Master of Health Law (MHL), and each of the graduate diplomas, consists of core units, together with a diverse range of electives. A law degree is not necessary for entry.

The health law program will be of particular significance to health lawyers, health administrators, doctors, nurses and other health professionals. The public health law program will also interest lawyers, health professionals and others working in public health in government, in public health organisations, and in the community health sector, and those working in industry whose role encompasses public health regulation.

The Law School’s seminar-style teaching is enriched by lecturers who are active researchers, and by contributions from visiting interstate and overseas experts. Students can keep abreast of current issues by attending the Health Law Seminar Series, and other periodic events.

STRUCTURE

GradDipHL: 24 credit points to complete, including two core units, Health Care and Professional Liability and Information Rights in Health Care. Two to three electives chosen from the range of relevant units on offer. Students without a law degree must also complete the unit, Legal Reasoning and the Common Law System or Introduction to Law for Health Professionals.

MHL: 48 credit points to complete, including three out of four core units, Critical Issues in Public Health Law or Government Regulation, Health Policy and Ethics or Health Care and Professional Liability or Information Rights in Health Care. Four to five electives chosen from the range of relevant units on offer. Students without a law degree must also complete the unit, Legal Reasoning and the Common Law System, or Introduction to Law for Health Professionals.
GradDipPubHL: 24 credit points to complete, including two core units, Critical Issues in Public Health Law and Law and Health Lifestyles. One to two elective units chosen from the range of relevant units on offer. Students without a law degree must also complete the unit, Legal Reasoning and the Common Law System, or Introduction to Law for Health Professionals.

One of Sydney Law School’s key strengths, the Jurisprudence or Legal Philosophy program comprises the teaching of legal thought and theory, with a particular focus on the philosophical and sociological aspects of the law.

It explores the general principles of the law, its operation and function in society, and provides a unique comparative and interdisciplinary overview across history, cultures and nations. Candidates can pursue such study through a graduate diploma, master’s or LLM.

STRUCTURE

GradDipJur: 24 credit points to complete, selected from the range of relevant units on offer.

LABOUR LAW AND RELATIONS
Master of Labour Law and Relations (MLLR)

Sydney Law School offers a rare and flexible program in Employment and Labour Law. Law graduates can pursue specific units in Labour Law, Employment Law, Discrimination Law and Dispute Resolution within an LLM.

Alternatively, candidates with or without a law degree can undertake the Master of Labour Law and Relations (MLLR), a sought-after qualification that merges the expertise of Sydney Law School with the Discipline of Work and Organisational Studies (part of the Sydney Business School) and Department of Political Economy.

Lawyers and other professionals working in human resources fields in government, business, industry and private practice find this interdisciplinary master’s degree an invaluable professional training experience.

STRUCTURE
MLLR: 48 credit points to complete, including two compulsory units of study: Labour Law; and Industrial Relations Policy. Students without a law degree must also complete the unit of study, Legal Reasoning and the Common Law System and at least three units from the list of core units. Students with a law degree must complete at least four units from the list of core units, in addition to the two compulsory units. All students must complete at least 24 credit points (up to 42) from the Faculty of Law, chosen from the range of units on offer.

For an up-to-date list of the units of study currently available for this degree, please refer to our handbook: sydney.edu.au/handbooks/law

Note that the structure of the MLLR program will be changed for students commencing in 2015 and the description set out below refers to the new structure. The primary change is to introduce greater flexibility and options for students. For candidates who are already enrolled or who commence before 2015, the current rules will apply throughout their candidacy.

This specialist master’s degree recognises the importance of law in international development. It will prepare you for work in international development, including in areas where law is involved.

The degree consists of foundation courses giving an overview of the role of law in international development, together with units from six thematic clusters: Development and Rights, Environment Climate Change and Sustainability in Development, Global Health Law and Development, Legal Pluralism, Rule of Law and Governance, and Trade and Development.

STRUCTURE

MLawIntDev: Up to 72 credit points to complete, including one core unit and at least two capstone units. The remaining units are undertaken on an elective basis.

Sydney Law School may grant a candidate a reduced volume of learning in recognition of their qualifications and/or experience.

Students who are granted a reduced volume of learning need to complete one core unit of study plus at least one capstone unit. The remaining units of study are undertaken on an elective basis.

For an up-to-date list of the units of study currently available for this degree, please refer to our handbook: sydney.edu.au/handbooks/law

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

Applicants are required to have a relevant undergraduate degree in law, development studies, commerce, economics, environmental studies, government, international studies, social work, science or public administration, at an appropriate level.

Notes:

* Students may seek permission from the Program Coordinator to enrol in postgraduate law units outside the table of units specified for their course. A maximum of 12 credit points for master’s students and 6 credit points for graduate diploma students may be permitted, subject to the student demonstrating (i) that they have the relevant academic background or professional background to undertake the unit(s); and (ii) the relevance of the unit(s) to their studies.

1 These programs involve undertaking unit(s) offered by other faculties.

2 To be completed by students who do not hold a law degree or equivalent from a common law jurisdiction. This unit needs to be undertaken in the first semester of candidature. Students who are unable to undertake the unit during their first semester of candidature need to defer commencement of their course until they are able to attend this unit. Health Law students are encouraged to undertake LAWS6881 Introduction to Law for Health Professionals in lieu of LAWS6252 Legal Reasoning and the Common Law System if available.

3 Students enrolling part-time may seek permission from the Program Coordinator to delay enrolment in a core unit.

4 To be completed by students who do not hold a law degree or equivalent from a common law jurisdiction.

5 This unit should be undertaken in the first semester of candidature. Students who have previously completed study in International Law may be exempt from undertaking this unit.

6 Students may undertake any postgraduate unit offered by Sydney Law School unless specified otherwise.

7 Unless and until otherwise approved by the Program Coordinator, all students except those enrolling in LAWS6866 Disability and Human Rights in International and Domestic Law, LAWS6039 Discrimination in the Workplace, LAWS6150 Dispute Resolution in Australia and LAWS6821 Mediation – Skills and Theory need to first complete LAWS6071 Labour Law before enrolling in any other labour law units of study, provided that full-time students may enrol in other labour law units of study concurrently with this unit of study. Credit will not be granted for WORK6116 Employment and the Law and completion of this unit will not be sufficient to obtain an exemption from the compulsory unit LAWS6071 Labour Law.

8 The Jurisprudence Research Project (12 cp) is to be undertaken during the final semester(s) of candidature. A fully developed research proposal (approximately 1000 words) needs to be submitted to the Program Coordinator for approval prior to enrolment.

9 Students who commenced the MLLR (a) prior to January 2010 need to complete the core unit WORK6018 International Industrial Relations or equivalent (formerly IREL5001 Australian Industrial Relations, WORK5001 Introduction to Employment Relations, WORK6000 Employment Relations); (b) during 2010 are required to complete the core unit WORK6017 Human Resource Strategies. Exemption may be granted upon application to the Program Coordinator.

10 LAWS6848 Law and Healthy Lifestyles may be substituted for LAWS6839 Critical Issues in Public Health Law as a core unit in the MHL.

11 It is strongly advised that students complete LAWS6243 International Law I before enrolling in this unit.

12 For 2015, LAWS6052 Government Regulation, Health Policy and Ethics is available as a core unit of study in place of LAWS6058 Information Rights in Health Care.

13 Master of Law and International Development students may undertake this unit as an elective or capstone unit conditional on (i) students need to write an essay that focuses on a development topic and (ii) that topic being pre-approved by the Unit Coordinator.

Late applications may be considered. However, some units have restricted class size and compulsory units may run early in the semester. It is strongly recommended that you submit your application on time to avoid disappointment. Please contact the Postgraduate Team for further details.

Submit your application online at: sydney.edu.au/law/fstudent/coursework/apply_local.shtml

Documentation required
– Original transcripts of all academic qualifications
– Proof of Australian or New Zealand citizenship or Australian permanent resident status (copies need to be certified by a Justice of the Peace or a Sydney Law School staff member)
– Statement of relevant experience
– English language proficiency test result (if applicable).

RESEARCH APPLICANTS

How to apply
There are two stages involved in applying to a research program.

Stage 1: Expression of Interest
Prior to making a formal application, you need to complete an Expression of Interest form detailing your area of intended research, academic qualifications, professional or other qualifications, original research activities and publications, and any other information relevant to the application. The form is available at the Postgraduate Research section of the Sydney Law School website: sydney.edu.au/law/fstudent/research

You need to submit your Expression of Interest at least two months before the official closing date. Email the form to sue.ng@sydney.edu.au

If your Expression of Interest is accepted, you will be referred to the relevant academic staff member to discuss the suitability/viability of your research proposal for a thesis and supervision, and determine whether to proceed to make a formal application (Stage 2).

Stage 2: Formal application for admission
Complete the Application for Admission form available online at: sydney.edu.au/law/fstudent/research

Closing dates – research applications (including course transfers)
For Semester 1 course commencing in February 2015: 26 September 2014
For Semester 2 course commencing in July 2015: 22 April 2015

Submit your application online at: sydney.edu.au/law/fstudent/research

Supporting documentation
Your completed application form needs to be submitted together with the following supporting documentation:
– Research proposal (see proposal outline on page 23).
– Proof of Australian/New Zealand citizenship or Australian permanent resident status, ie, original or certified Australian birth/citizenship certificate or photo page of valid passport (and permanent resident visa if applicable). Copies need to be certified by a Justice of the Peace or a Sydney Law School staff member.
– Evidence of name change (if applicable), such as original or certified marriage certificate.
– Original transcripts of all academic qualifications. The transcript should contain the name of qualification, award conferral date, and name of awarding institution, class of honours, course duration, overall course average or grade point average attained. For overseas qualifications, please provide academic transcripts including explanation of grades and the level of passing grade at the awarding institution. Applicants whose transcripts are not in English should provide original transcripts together with original translations of the transcripts. Original transcripts will be returned to applicants.

– Evidence of English language proficiency.

– At least one referee report from an academic and/or relevant professional outlining your academic performance, research potential and demonstrated ability to undertake a research degree. Download the referee report form at sydney.edu.au/law/fs_students/research

– List of original publications and details of research projects (undertaken in English only). Include the submission date, type (eg, book, journal, conference paper), title, word length, and whether you were the sole author, main author (main contributor of publication) or co-author.

– Statement indicating your relevant professional experience at a responsible level or direct research since graduation (please list position title, duration of position held and responsibilities undertaken).

– Statement detailing your availability for study. If your proposed candidature will be part-time, you should attach a statement to indicate that you will be substantially free to pursue your candidature. Your statement should show that you will have sufficient time available to complete the course within the maximum period. It should also show that you will plan and carry out the intended research; and for the purposes of this research, that you will be under the supervision and control of the University. If you are employed, your statement should include a declaration from your employer confirming that you will be permitted the time required to effectively pursue your studies.

– Thesis completion timetable including attendance and completion of the core units Legal Research 1, 2 and 3. Master’s research candidates are required to complete Legal Research 1 only.

– Doctor of Juridical Studies applicants: you need to indicate the coursework units you are planning to undertake in conjunction with the thesis and the units Legal Research 1, 2 and 3.

Research proposal

Prospective research students should include a detailed research proposal (approximately 10 pages). This needs to include the following information:

– Proposed research title

– Aims of the research

– Background to the research, including a survey of the relevant literature and law (including case law, where appropriate) and a clear statement of the area to be researched

– Rationale for the research and a statement of why it is significant

– Working hypotheses or research questions

– Research methodology including theoretical and empirical considerations for the research

– Consideration of ethical requirements and obligations of the research, including all research projects and teaching practicals involving human participants as subjects. For details, see sydney.edu.au/research_support

RESEARCH APPLICANTS

How to apply

Stage 1: Expression of Interest
Prior to making a formal application, you need to complete an Expression of Interest form detailing your area of intended research, academic qualifications, professional or other qualifications, original research activities and publications, and any other information relevant to the application. The form is available at the Postgraduate Research section of the Sydney Law School website:
sydney.edu.au/law/fstudent/research

You need to submit your Expression of Interest at least two months before the official closing date. Email the form to sue.ng@sydney.edu.au

If your Expression of Interest is accepted, you will be referred to the relevant academic staff member to discuss the suitability/viability of your research proposal for a thesis and supervision, and determine whether to proceed to make a formal application (Stage 2).

Stage 2: Formal application for admission
Complete the Application for Admission form available online at:
