Section 4.3

Triggers for identifying students, not meeting academic progression requirements

4.3.1 The University will use the following triggers to identify students not meeting academic progression requirements:

4.3.1.1 failure by a student to successfully complete fifty percent or more of the credit points for which the student was enrolled in the semester just completed;

4.3.1.2 failure by a student to achieve an average mark of fifty or above in the award course in each semester. Note that if faculty resolutions stipulate that an average mark above fifty is required in order to remain enrolled in a given degree or stream and if alternative enrolment for students not meeting this requirement is provided, then faculty resolutions take precedence over the current policy;

4.3.1.3 failure by a student to complete compulsory or barrier unit(s) of study, field or clinical work, practicums or professional experience;

4.3.1.4 failure twice by a student to pass the same unit of study;

4.3.1.5 unsatisfactory student attendance record as entered in FlexSIS by faculties; or 4.3.1.6 inability of a student to complete their award course within the maximum permitted time while carrying a normal student load.
