Accommodation
Finding a place to live

On-campus accommodation
There are a limited number of places for international students who want to live on the University campus. There are several options close to the Camperdown and Darlington campuses, including International House, Sydney University Village, Queen Mary Building and Urbanest, as well as a number of residential colleges. For more information about the various on-campus accommodation options and about how to apply, please visit sydney.edu.au/accommodation

Off-campus accommodation
If you choose to live off-campus, Accommodations Services recommends you view the property in person, and meet the landlord, agent or manager, before signing any contracts or paying fees. Make sure you allow time to look for accommodation by arranging temporary accommodation when you arrive in Australia. There are a range of off-campus accommodation options that range from shared accommodation, private rental, student residences and homestays.

Shared accommodation
Shared accommodation is where a number of housemates share an apartment or a house, and can offer good value for money to students. These are usually furnished and include internet connection. You may find shared accommodation listings on popular websites, such as flatmatefinders.com.au flatmates.com.au and gumtree.com.au. You should also explore the Accommodation Database at Student Accommodation: sydney.edu.au/accommodation

The City of Sydney has a translated brochure full of tips for share-housing that you can download cityofsydney.nsw.gov.au/live/report-local-issues/unauthorised-accommodation/share-accommodation-tips

Private rental
This is the most independent living option where you rent an apartment or house either alone or with housemates. Rented accommodation may come furnished or unfurnished, and in many cases you will need to set up your internet connection and other utilities by yourself. This is generally a more costly option as you also will be required to pay a rental bond. You can find property for rent at your local real estate agent or on websites, such as domain.com.au and realestate.com.au

Student residences
There are many purpose-built student residences around Sydney. Benefits include the ability to meet other students, comfortable facilities, internet access, and excellent location. However, student residences can be expensive. Search for student residence providers from Urbanest, Iglu and UniLodge.

Homestays
A homestay involves living with a family in their home. This is a great way of learning about the local culture. You also may be provided your meals, internet and a furnished bedroom as part of your homestay. Check out sydney.edu.au/accommodation/homestay where you can find a list of homestay providers.

Tenant's Rights
Be aware of your rights as a tenant or lease holder. Visit tenants.org.au for information about renting, boarding house living, tenant’s rights and contacts for advice and support.

Keep your information up to date! If you change address, log on to Sydney Student to update your personal contact details within 7 days. This is a requirement of your student visa!
Also make sure your next of kin details and emergency contacts are correct.
Money, Banking & Budgeting

Things to know

Cost of living
It is important to make sure you know how much it will cost to live in Sydney so you can manage your money. Information about estimated costs is available: sydney.edu.au/study/finances-fees-costs/living-costs.html

Setting up a bank account
To set up a bank account, visit a bank and let them know you are an international student and wish to open an account. You will need to have with you:
- Photo identification (such as your passport)
- Proof of Australian address
- Proof of Enrolment
- Tax File Number (TFN)
While you do not require a Tax File Number (TFN) to set up a bank account, you will be taxed heavily on the interest you earn in your account if you do not provide a TFN. To find out more about getting a TFN, visit: ato.gov.au/Forms/TFN---application-for-individuals

Don't get scammed! Never give money or your details to anyone you don't know, especially if they phone or threaten you. Stay informed: scamwatch.gov.au

Banks on campus
The Commonwealth Bank of Australia (CBA) and the National Australia Bank (NAB) have branches on the University’s Darlington campus in the Wentworth Building. There are Automatic Teller Machines (ATMs) from other institutions located around campus, including ANZ, Westpac and St George. NOTE: If you use another bank’s ATM to get cash, you may be charged additional fees.

Banking
There are many banks, credit unions and building societies available in Australia – shop around to get the best exchange rates and financial services you require. Visit: moneysmart.gov.au

Exchange rates
The Australian currency uses dollars and cents. For current exchange rates between your home currency visit: xe.com/currencyconverter

Living costs and budgeting
Living in Sydney can be expensive but there are ways to save money on groceries, clothes, furniture and uni supplies. Shop at markets and Aldi for cheap food, a large range of second hand clothes shops and buy, swap and sell websites online like Gumtree where you can get cheaper, second hand items. A useful budgeting tool is available at: moneysmart.gov.au

Scholarships
The University’s Scholarships Office administers the central scholarships programs and the financial assistance at the university. For information about scholarships, visit sydney.edu.au/scholarships

Student discounts
Lots of businesses offer discounts to students – look for signs and show your student card. On campus, purchase a USU ACCESS membership for discounts at most retail outlets on the Camperdown/Darlington campus: usu.edu.au

Know your consumer rights! Check out the NSW Fair Trading Consumer Guide: fairtrading.nsw.gov.au/Youth/International_students.html
Getting a mobile phone
To get a new mobile (cell) phone, you have several options.

1. Buying outright
You can buy your mobile phone device outright, which will give you the flexibility to choose a month-to-month service contract or a pre-paid SIM (see below for more information). This option is suitable for those students who plan on living in Sydney for less than two years, as you will not be locked into a contract period.

2. 24-month contract
You may sign a contact to pay a fixed monthly fee over a two year period. This option will normally give you generous usage inclusions, along with getting a brand new phone.

What to bring
When you decide on getting a new phone, make sure you take with you the following documents:
- Proof of address (such as a household bill with your name and address on it)
- Proof of identity (such as your passport)
- Proof of income or bank statement

As international students, some telecommunications providers may ask you for additional documents, such as proof of enrolment, especially if you are signing a 24-month contract.

Month-to-month
A month-to-month contract can give you greater flexibility as you will not be locked into a fixed contract period, and will be able to exit the agreement at anytime.

Pre-paid
A pre-paid option means you will need to pay money before you are able to use your phone. When you have used all of your credit, you will need to recharge your account. This is usually the cheapest option, and gives you the greatest control over how you spend your money.

Shop around for a provider
Speak to different mobile providers to find out who offers the best services for both local and international calling and texting as well as internet access. To compare providers, check youcompare.com.au/mobilephones/providers

Connecting to the internet

In a private home
If you live in a private/ rental property, depending on your agreement, you may need to set up an internet connection by yourself. If you have housemates, it is normal to share the cost of the internet bills. You may purchase a fixed term plan, where you pay a monthly fee for a fixed period of time (usually 24 months). If you need more flexibility, you may opt for mobile broadband plans. To compare providers, visit youcompare.com.au/broadband

On campus
All Sydney University students have access to free Wi-Fi on campus. Simply connect to the wireless network with your UniKey, or you can use the computers provided for you at the libraries and 24-hour Learning Hubs in these buildings:

Wentworth Peter Nicol Russell
Carslaw Brennan MacCallum

Working & Workers’ Rights

Can I work while I study?
• You must have a valid student visa that also allows you to work in Australia. Generally, you cannot work until you have started your course and you are limited to working 40 hours per fortnight during semester. Visit the Immigration website for further information: border.gov.au/Trav/Stud
• It is important you know both your rights and responsibilities as a worker. Contact the Fair Work Ombudsman and download their guide for international students: fairwork.gov.au/internationalstudents
• If you need information about your rights as a worker in a language other than English, contact the Translating and Interpreting Service (TIS) on 13 14 50.

Finding a job
• You will need a up-to-date resume detailing your education and employment history and may need to respond to selection criteria detailing how you meet the requirements of the role. Popular job advertising websites include: seek.com.au & careerone.com.au or through Sydney Uni Career Centre.
• Volunteering is a great way to meet people and build your experience. Check out: volunteering.nsw.gov.au
• Become a City of Sydney Ambassador: cityofsydney.nsw.gov.au/community/community-support/international-students/studying-and-working-in-sydney/leadership-ambassador-program/isla-applications

Sydney Careers Centre
The Careers Centre provides a range of services and resources to assist you to find employment and work opportunities while you study and after you graduate. These include:
• Sydney CareerHub: online job database and newsletter service: careerhub.sydney.edu.au
• On-campus career events including careers fairs, employer networking and skill development workshops
• Information about internships and cadetships
• Australian resume writing assistance
• Individual appointments with careers advisers
Visit the Careers site: sydney.edu.au/careers

Get involved
There are a number of competitions for students to participate in to get project management and consulting experience. Find out more about:
• Univative: sydney.edu.au/careers/student_events_workshops/univative.shtml
• Global Scope: intersective.com/globalscope

Tax File Number (TFN)
• You will need a TFN if you want to work in Australia. Find out about how to getting a TFN at: ato.gov.au/Forms/TFN---application-for-individuals
• There are important details about tax and superannuation that depend on how long you will be in Australia. Find out about. How this effects you at the Australian Taxation Office website: moneysmart.gov.au

Have any more questions? Contact the Fair Work Ombudsman: fairwork.gov.au
Sydney’s extensive public transport system services the city centre and suburbs. Types of transport include buses, trains, light rail and ferries. There are also private bus companies that service some areas.

For timetables, maps, fares and general transport information: transportnsw.info

There is also a useful trip planner to help you work out where to go and how to get there at this site or you can call 13 15 00.

Opal Cards
The new electronic ticketing system, Opal, is an easy, convenient and fast way of travelling on the public transport network in Sydney, Blue Mountains, Central Coast, Hunter, Illawarra and Southern Highlands. Opal cards can be automatically or manually topped up with funds. Single trip tickets are also available. Visit the Opal website for information about how to purchase and use Opal: opal.com.au

Your Opal card works on trains, buses, light rail and ferries. Fares depend on how far you travel.

Avoid a fine! It is an offence to use public transport without an Opal card.

TAP ON and TAP OFF your Opal card to get the correct fare!

Taxis
Taxis are widely available around Sydney. Call to book or wave your arm from the road at taxis with a light. The metre must start once you are in the taxi. Drivers must follow the route you request if you know where you are going.

Bicycles
There are some bicycle lanes around Sydney that are safer than riding on the road. Maps and other information are available: sydneycycleways.net

There are bicycle maps of the University campus available: sydney.edu.au/campus-life/getting-to-campus/cycling.html

It is a legal requirement that you wear a helmet when you ride on the road in Australia. It is also recommended that you wear a bright vest to make you more visible.

University campus shuttle buses
There is a free security bus service to Redfern Station that encircles the Camperdown and Darlington campuses that runs on week days from 4:30pm. Timetable and route available: sydney.edu.au/current_students/transport_safety/campus-bus.shtml

Driving and driver licenses
If you want to get a NSW driver’s license to drive a car in Sydney, contact Services NSW to find out what you need to do. You may need to take a computer or driving test. T: 13 77 88

REMEMBER: Australians drive on the left hand side of the road! Look LEFT AND RIGHT before you cross the road and use traffic lights and pedestrian crossings wherever possible.
Health Insurance

Overseas Student Health Cover (OSHC)

If you have chosen to have the University organise your OSHC, then this will have been arranged with Allianz as your provider. You may change health insurer at any time. Please explore the OSHC Allianz website to understand the extent of and limits to your cover. To arrange your OSHC Allianz membership card, click on the Students Toolbar and then select “Order a Membership Card”.

If you need to see a doctor before you get your membership card or you have chosen to arrange your own OSHC, you will need to pay first and then make a claim for a refund from your OSHC provider. OSHC Allianz has a representative on campus to help you obtain your membership card and assist with claims and other queries at Level 4, Wentworth Building, Monday to Friday, 9am–5pm. For more information about OSHC, visit sydney.edu.au/students/overseas-student-health-cover-oshc.html

Accessing Health Care in Australia

In Australia, if you don’t feel well, the first place you will usually go is a General Practitioner, also known as a GP (like a family physician). These types of doctors are skilled in a broad range of medical conditions and can assist you if you feel unwell, need a prescription, blood tests or a vaccination. Your GP can also provide general sexual health assistance, including contraceptive advice and birth control, pap tests, sexually transmitted disease testing and pregnancy testing and advice. You can also see a doctor in their private practice or a medical centre, with part or the entire doctor’s fee being covered by OSHC (see above). You’ll usually need to make an appointment to see a GP. You will need to have your OSHC card with you, but some GP surgeries will request full payment at the time of consultation and you’ll need to get a receipt to claim the rebate from your OSHC provider.

Talk to your GP about what is concerning you and they will either assist you directly or provide you with a REFERRAL to a specialist to assist you further. NOTE: specialist services may incur costs.

The University Health Service

The University Health Service offers experienced general practitioner and emergency medical care services to all students and staff. Male and female GPs are available and a nurse is on-site to assist with standard procedures like vaccinations and wound care. University Health Service is located at Level 3, Wentworth Building. You can make an appointments Monday to Friday from 8:30am–5:30pm during semester. You can call 9351 3484 or make appointments online. Please note, fees apply for late cancelations or missed appointments. Pathology services and some other allied health services including a dentist, optometrist and physiotherapist are also available in the Wentworth Building. Further information is available: sydney.edu.au/health-service/international-students

Sexual Health

Sexual health information, advice and testing is easily accessible in Australia. You can speak to your GP or attend a free sexual health clinic like the Sydney Sexual Health Centre: sshc.org.au. There is also information and links on the PlaySafe website: playsafe.health.nsw.gov.au/

Safety & Wellbeing
Staying safe in Sydney

Safety at the University
This University of Sydney Security Service ensures your campus is secure 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It also provides a free bus from Fisher Library to Redfern station from 4pm to 10pm Monday to Friday during semester, along with safety sips and safe pedestrian routes around the University. Security staff are friendly, trained to help and are committed to keeping you safe.

For more tips, visit sydney.edu.au/current_students/student_services/safety.shtml

Beach safety
Sydney has some of Australia’s most beautiful and popular beaches. Enjoy them safely:
- Always swim between the red and yellow flags on patrolled beaches and do not swim alone
- Raise and wave your hand if you need help when you are in the water
- Feel free to speak to the lifesavers and ask them advice or report any problems
- Visit Surf Lifesaving Australia: lifesaving.com.au

Bush safety
Sydney and NSW have many spectacular national parks and areas of natural beauty we encourage you to explore and enjoy safely:
- Make sure someone knows where you are going, try to go with others, preferably a guide who is familiar with the area
- Wear good walking shoes, take a first aid kit, plenty of food and water
- Check the weather forecast and take anything you might need if the conditions change — a jumper, rain coat etc
- Stay on trails and walking tracks and be very careful if you plan to swim in lakes or rivers. Do not dive in and look for signs advising of any dangers.
- Do not feed or touch animals.
- Know emergency first aid and try to stay within mobile phone range.

Pedestrian safety
Traffic travels on the left hand side of the road in Australia, which is different to many other parts of the world. Always be aware and alert around traffic and on roads.
- Always cross at traffic lights when the green signal flashes or at pedestrian (zebra) crossings.
- Always look to the left and then the right and the left again when crossing the road, even at traffic lights and pedestrian crossings.
- Walk on footpaths (sidewalks) wherever possible.
