“Go on exchange.
Explore the world.
Get lost, and find yourself.
Remember, everything will always work out well in the end!”

Anton Baychkov

WHY STUDY OVERSEAS?

Combine study and travel to set yourself up for a global career. Develop the cultural competencies to work across borders, while having the experience of a lifetime.

- Develop your self-confidence, independence and cross-cultural understanding.
- Experience new ways of learning and access different academic opportunities.
- Gain a global perspective for a competitive edge.
“Getting to study subjects that I would never have otherwise been able to study was amazing. I was constantly being challenged intellectually and introduced to new ideas and perspectives.”

Carol Zhou-Zheng
Bachelor of Engineering Honours/Bachelor of Arts
University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA

“Exchange in Shanghai was absolutely the best part of my university experience. Meeting people from across the globe and immersing myself in a culture so different to my own has really helped me to step out of my comfort zone and improve so many aspects of my life.”

Sebastian Tattam
Bachelor of Commerce (Liberal Studies)
Fudan University, China

“Studying abroad has changed my perspective on life and how I see the world. It has given me the opportunity to visit places I’d never even dreamed of, meet fascinating people from all walks of life, and learn to live in every moment.”

Rebecca Matthews
Bachelor of Arts (Media and Communications)
University of Toronto, Canada
You can choose from more than 400 programs in 50 countries and spend your break, a semester, or a full year abroad. Explore your global opportunities at:

- sydney.edu.au/study/overseas-programs

Exchange programs

Short term, semester and full year

We have more than 290 exchange partners* in 42 countries. While you go on exchange, you remain enrolled and continue to pay your tuition fees to the University of Sydney. A student from your host institution does the same in reverse, and the result is an exchange of students and places.

You can undertake an exchange program during the summer or winter break, for a semester or a year. Understand your course requirements and plan carefully to choose the right program for your needs. See page 18 for more information on getting credit towards your degree.

* 130 of our exchange partners are listed among the top 200 universities in the world (Times Higher Education World University Rankings 2018).

Non-exchange programs

Short term

Undertake one or two units of study during the semester break at a university where an exchange program is not available. You can access units from a wide range of study areas at a world-renowned university such as Cambridge, Harvard, Yale and the London School of Economics, by enrolling and paying tuition fees directly to the host institution or program provider.

Fees for many short-term non-exchange programs include accommodation and excursions at your host destination.
“Spending a semester abroad provided me with the opportunity to network with industry professionals from all over the United States. It was very interesting to hear alternative perspectives within the industry and to also share my own viewpoint in comparison. Going on exchange has motivated me to pursue an international career in an industry that I am passionate about.”

Anna McDougall
Master of Architectural Science
University of Washington
Faculty programs

There are a number of faculty-administered, intensive-mode programs offered overseas during the breaks. Each of these programs has different eligibility and selection criteria, and you’ll need to apply directly to the faculty, school or centre. Some of these include:

- Business School Industry Placement Program in Sydney or overseas
- Global Engineering Field Work for undergraduate engineering students
- Faculty of Health Sciences (FHS) Abroad opportunity for undergraduate and postgraduate health sciences students
- Offshore units from Sydney Law School
- Interdisciplinary field schools in Southeast Asia
- Suzhou-Shanghai field school in China
- Nanjing Research Exchange offered by the Faculty of Science
- Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences program at St Xavier’s College, Mumbai.

In-country language immersion

You can travel overseas and learn another language with an intensive in–country unit as part of the new Open Learning Environment (OLE).

Along with six credit points toward your degree, you’ll gain unique and first-hand experiences through a combination of formal language classes and cultural activities, including visits to museums, theatres and memorial sites.

Destinations include Spain, Germany, Italy, Indonesia, New Caledonia, Japan, South Korea, China and Morocco.

- sydney.edu.au/arts/ole-in-country
“Study abroad was a pivotal experience for me because of how much it forced me to become independent. The sheer amount of people you meet will give you a plethora of new ideas and experiences if you let yourself be open to them.”

Albert Ma
Bachelor of Design Computing
McGill University, Canada
You will:
- hear from influential leaders across a range of fields
- strengthen your intercultural competencies
- create meaningful international networks
- maximise your overseas study and/or work experience
- prepare yourself to compete in increasingly global labour markets
- understand your role as a global citizen
- receive recognition on your graduation statement.

As a GCA participant you will earn points for participating in events and activities focused on one or more of the program themes, from a range of local and overseas options. You’ll be encouraged to undertake an experience abroad during your time at the University. You can also complete the program without going abroad, through globally focused opportunities available in and around the University.

“Through the GCA I was offered an exclusive opportunity to attend the 2017 University Scholars Leadership Symposium in Bangkok. At this event, I was asked to speak in front of 900 delegates from more than 60 countries, and engage in discourse with international leaders and stakeholders.

“While I learnt a lot from the individuals who presented at the conference, I learnt the most about leadership from the students around me, who openly shared the issues facing their nations and the steps they were taking to make a change. This was an opportunity I wouldn’t have known about if I wasn’t a part of the GCA.”

Lauren Chapman
Bachelor of Arts/Bachelor of Laws
Global Citizenship Award participant

The Global Citizenship Award (GCA) is an extracurricular program that provides unique international and leadership opportunities to prepare you as a global citizen.

Information current as of March 2018. More programs are added on a regular basis. Consult the global mobility database for details. sydney.edu.au/study/overseas-programs
We encourage you to start planning early to ensure you can undertake an overseas program (or two!) during your course. This gives you enough time to research your options, plan your enrolment, and get the advice you need before applying.

HOW TO APPLY

1. Attend an information session to explore your overseas study options.
2. Find your mobility window – the best time in your course to go overseas.
3. Research what you can study, where you can go and the programs that will suit you, using our global mobility database. sydney.edu.au/study/overseas-programs
4. Talk to a Sydney Abroad adviser for further help and advice.
5. Complete your application online and submit all the supporting documents by the due date.

By 2020, we aim to have 50 percent of our students undertake an international experience as part of their studies, with scholarship funding available for at least half of these students.

When assessing applications, we take into account academic merit (Weighted Average Mark), your academic plan, and eligibility for the host university, to ensure that it’s a good fit and you’ll have the most rewarding experience abroad possible.
Am I eligible to apply?

When you apply, you’ll need to be on track to complete at least 48 credit points (undergraduate) or 18 to 24 credit points (postgraduate), and have scope in your course to undertake a mobility experience. For more information on eligibility criteria:
- sydney.edu.au/students/study-abroad-and-exchange/eligibility.html

Choosing your destination

To ensure you have the most enriching experience possible, research the available options carefully. When short-listing your preferred programs, consider the following:
- availability of suitable subjects for your course and level of study
- language of instruction
- how much it will cost
- scholarships and loans available
- accommodation options
- lifestyle opportunities
- student support services available
- what you hope to get out of the experience.

You can research and find comparison information about subjects, languages, housing, cost of living and lifestyle at each program at:
- sydney.edu.au/study/overseas-programs

When can I apply?

After you’ve worked out the best time in your degree to go, you’ll need to apply at least two semesters in advance. For a short-term program, you can apply in the semester immediately prior.

* Postgraduate students can apply in their first semester.
 Exchange in the final semester is not possible in all courses.
*Postgraduate students can apply in their first semester.
* Please note that this can delay graduation and progression into Honours, and will affect your eligibility for OS-HELP.

GETTING CREDIT TOWARDS YOUR COURSE

Study overseas and experience a new culture while earning credit towards your course.

Credit approval for overseas programs

Semester exchange
The availability of subjects at your host institution is a crucial factor in choosing your preferences for a semester exchange.

When researching your preferred semester exchange destination, consult the partner institution’s course catalogue to confirm that there are sufficient units of study available to exchange students in your field and level of study in the semester for which you are applying.

Due to enrolment quotas and other restrictions, the availability of overseas subjects during semester programs cannot be guaranteed and studying elective units on exchange will provide more flexibility. You will need to request academic approval from your faculty for the units you wish to take during your exchange semester.

Short-term exchange
You can find information about the units of study offered during short-term exchange programs on the global mobility database (visit sydney.edu.au/study/overseas-programs). Use this information to request credit approval from your faculty before you apply.

Non-exchange programs
You can apply to receive academic credit towards your University of Sydney course, but it is not mandatory for non-exchange programs. If you wish to obtain credit for a non-exchange program, you should submit a request to your faculty before applying.

Credit transfer
The units you enrol in overseas will not appear on your University of Sydney transcript. After you return, your faculty will use your official overseas transcript and any other required documentation to credit your results towards your University of Sydney course.
In 2018 we’re offering more than $4.2 million in travel scholarships and grants, as well as government funded OS-HELP loans, to help cover your living and travel costs while you’re away.

Vice Chancellor’s Global Mobility Scholarship

Students applying to semester exchange or short-term programs will automatically be considered for a Vice Chancellor’s Global Mobility Scholarship worth up to $2000. This scholarship is allocated on the basis of academic merit (WAM) and/or exchange destination. Students are not eligible if they receive another travelling scholarship or grant.

Super Partner Scholarships

Students will receive $2000 if they are accepted into the semester exchange program at one of our four Super Exchange Partners:

- University of Copenhagen
- National University of Singapore
- Utrecht University
- University of Edinburgh.

Academic Merit Scholarships

We offer scholarships of $1500 to students participating on the semester exchange program who have achieved a Weighted Average Mark (WAM) higher than 70.

Short-term scholarships

Scholarships of up to $1500 are available on a competitive basis to students who are participating in selected short-term programs.

For detailed information, including eligibility criteria, see:

- sydney.edu.au/study/overseas-programs

Faculty scholarships

There are a number of scholarship opportunities offered by faculties, as well as external groups such as community organisations, exchange partner institutions and foreign governments. We will supply the application form for these scholarships once we have nominated you to the host institution.

- sydney.edu.au/scholarships/current/exchange.shtml
Awards
The Vice Chancellor’s Global Mobility Award, valued at $5000, will be offered to students participating on a semester exchange program who entered the University of Sydney on an E12 or equivalent pathway. Recipients may hold this award in conjunction with another travelling scholarship or grant.

Australian Government grants
Through the New Colombo Plan and Australia Awards Endeavour Mobility Grants, eligible students can obtain a grant of up to $7000 for semester exchange programs, and up to $3000 for short-term programs. There are also a number of faculty-led programs supported by government grants.

− sydney.edu.au/study/mobility-grants

Centrelink
If you currently receive Centrelink benefits, you may be able to continue receiving benefits while studying full time overseas.

OS-HELP loans
OS-HELP is a loan available to eligible students enrolled in a Commonwealth supported place who have been approved to undertake some of their study overseas for credit.

You can receive one loan per six-month study period and can access a total of two OS-HELP loans over your lifetime.

If you’re travelling to Asia and studying an Asian language, you can request an additional $1065 to fund your language study in preparation for your overseas program.

− sydney.edu.au/study/os-help

Costs and fees
While on an exchange program, you do not pay tuition fees to your host institution, but you are responsible for all other costs, including the airfare, accommodation, living expenses and extra travel. If you undertake a non-exchange program, you will be required to pay a tuition or program fee to the host institution.

The cost of living can vary significantly from city to city, even in the same country, so it’s important to plan your finances.

− sydney.edu.au/study/overseas-programs
There are a number of opportunities to help you prepare for your overseas studies.

WHAT’S NEXT?

Exchange information sessions and drop-in advice sessions
We hold faculty and region-specific information sessions, as well as drop-in advice sessions, throughout the semester. Come along to meet a Sydney Abroad adviser and learn more about the programs available before you apply.

Sydney Abroad Fair
We hold our annual Sydney Abroad Fair in April. Meet representatives from our partner institutions and speak to current incoming exchange students and returned students about their experience.

Meet and greet and pre-departure sessions
After you have confirmed your participation in a program, you’ll be invited to a meet and greet and pre-departure session, where you can have a chat with other students going overseas and learn more about:
- planning your departure (visas, accommodation, insurance)
- health, safety and security
- advice on administrative requirements (enrolment, credit transfer)
- living in your host country
- methods to assist you in adapting to your new social and academic environment.

“Studying abroad challenged me to go beyond my comfort zone and broaden my horizons – so much that the person who left Sydney is very different from the person who came back.”

Here’s a collection of the most frequently asked questions about studying overseas.

1. What is the difference between exchange and non-exchange programs?

Exchange and non-exchange programs vary in the way you pay your tuition fees. As an exchange student, you remain enrolled at the University and continue your usual fee arrangement. A non-exchange program requires you to enrol at a foreign university and pay fees to that university directly.

2. Where do I stay in my host country?

There are many accommodation options and they vary depending on your chosen destination. From on-campus student housing to finding your own home off-campus, there’ll be one that suits your needs and lifestyle. Many short-term programs offer accommodation packages in the program fee. Check the ‘Living’ section on the global mobility database for more details.

3. Is it expensive?

Studying overseas doesn’t have to be expensive. Remember that you will be living and studying abroad, not travelling on holiday. Living costs vary across the world, even in different regions of the same country. Food, accommodation and transport can be much cheaper than Sydney in many locations. There are a number of scholarships, grants and loans available to help cover some of your living expenses.

4. Will spending a semester abroad delay my graduation?

You remain enrolled at the University of Sydney during your semester exchange. Your results for approved subjects are then credited towards your course at the University of Sydney once you have satisfactorily completed your mobility program. If planned carefully, semester exchange should not delay your graduation unless you go abroad in your final semester, which can delay graduation or progression into Honours.

5. How long can I go abroad for?

You can complete one or two subjects in as little as two weeks in the winter or summer break or spend a semester or a full year overseas.

6. Can I go abroad if I am a postgraduate or international student?

Yes, both postgraduate and international students can go abroad. Postgraduate coursework students enrolled in at least a 72 credit point master can apply in their first semester, provided that there is scope in their course. Postgraduate research students can also participate, subject to supervisor approval.

7. Do I need to know another language to go on exchange?

Many of our partners in non-English speaking countries across Europe and Asia offer a broad range of courses taught in English. Therefore you are not required to speak another language to attend. Check our database to find out which partners offer subjects in English.

8. What kind of support will I get?

Sydney Abroad advisers work with you during the application process to help you find an overseas program most suited to your needs. If you access student support services at the University of Sydney, it is important to ensure before you apply that your chosen program will offer a comparable level of support. Many short-term programs offer ‘complete experience packages’ with dedicated in-country support staff. Find out more about support services:

9. Do I need to find units of study that are an exact match of ones in my degree?

One benefit of spending a period at an overseas institution is that you can access units of study that may not be taught at the University of Sydney. For example, at the National University of Singapore, a film studies major could take an elective on South Asian Cinema, which is not offered at the University of Sydney.
Forest Stewardship Council (FSC®) is a globally recognised certification overseeing all fibre sourcing standards. This provides guarantees for the consumer that products are made from woodchips from well-managed forests and other controlled sources, with strict environmental, social and economic standards.
We have more than 400 programs in 50 countries and partner with top-ranking universities worldwide.

Studying overseas is a unique opportunity to see the world and graduate with a truly global perspective. You can take just one or two subjects on a short-term program, go for a whole semester or even a year as part of your degree.
