

REDFERN, THEN AND NOW

About the Company:

Donna Ingram is a proud Wiradjuri woman who was born and raised on Gadigal land in Sydney. Donna has been Welcoming people to Country in Sydney for many major events for over 10 years and sits on numerous advisory boards in Sydney. Donna has worked in Aboriginal affairs for the past 35 years, mostly in education.

The Tour:

Be immersed in the heart of Aboriginal culture in Sydney, with an insightful 90 minute walking tour of Redfern, guided by Donna Ingram, Mother of 4, Grandmother, and a proud Cultural Representative for the local Aboriginal community in Sydney.

Features:

The first of its kind, this tour focuses on the social and political history of Redfern with a knowledgeable Aboriginal guide who has strong connections to the area. Redfern has been the epicentre of Aboriginal activism and still plays a big role in Aboriginal people's connection to their identity.

Location:

The tour generally starts at the National Centre of Indigenous Excellence (NCIE), 180 George Street Redfern but can begin at other points in Redfern by negotiation.

What to Bring:

This tour involves a light walk along flat surfaces, but it is advisable for participants to wear comfortable shoes and bring a water bottle and a hat.

Retail Price:

$44.00 p/person (min 10 - max 20 people)
Payment by EFT or credit card.

Bookings:

Group bookings can be made by contacting Donna directly:

Email: bizzykooori@hotmail.com

Mobile: 0435 170 066

Tours can be organised for any day of the week, including weekends by negotiation. Private and individual tours available by request.

Prices valid: 1st April 2019 – 31st March 2020