

Disability Information

Important: Personal information about students is protected under the Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act 1988 (NSW), the Health Records and Information Privacy Act 2002 (NSW) and the University of Sydney Privacy Policy and Plan (copies of which are available at <http://www.usyd.edu.au/arms/privacy>).

The University is required to provide demographic information to the Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations (DEEWR) about all enrolled students.

This information is linked to individual student identification numbers (but does not contain names or contact details) and includes information provided at enrolment and during a student's candidature.

Disability data is included in the demographic information collected by the University.

It is important that the information provided to DEEWR accurately reflects the numbers of students with a disability attending the University.

This data is used by DEEWR to calculate and publish aggregated access, participation, retention and success rates, and to determine the amount of funding provided to the University to support students with a disability.

I agree to Disability Services confirming and, if necessary, amending my enrolment details to include my disability status for the purposes outlined above.
