

You are here:

TEACHING @ SYDNEY

May 2013

Need help with publishing your learning and teaching project?

This two hour workshop on publishing from your Widening Participation project provides an opportunity for you to discuss your ideas on writing about your project. The workshop is also open to people interested in writing about their learning and teaching-related research.

You'll be able to make connections across disciplines for possible collaborative writing, and hear from an experienced journal editor. Please bring any work in progress.

Date: Monday 13 May

Time: 10am-12pm

Venue: Darlington Centre Conference Room

Register: Click here

Presenters / Facilitators:

- Professor Deborah Lupton, a prolific writer who uses social media alongside more 'traditional' forms of publishing.
 - Dr Tai Peseta, who is on the editorial teams of Higher Education Research and Development, Teaching in Higher Education and The International Journal for the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning.
 - Dr Hannah Forsyth, Postdoctoral Research Fellow at the Social Inclusion Unit.
-