

30TH AUSTRALIAN POULTRY SCIENCE SYMPOSIUM

17-20 FEB 2019

The Poultry Research Foundation, in conjunction with WPSA - Australian Branch, cordially invites you to the 30th Australian Poultry Science Symposium

@ Sheraton on the Park, Sydney

The Australian Poultry Science Symposium is the premier avian science conference in Australia, attracting delegates from across the country and around the world. This year our conference will focus on the over-riding theme of:

“Sustainable Poultry Production”

APSS 2019 will be another great event as we celebrate 30 years of the Symposium. Sheraton on the Park will again host the event for us, following on from two very successful years in the heart of the Sydney CBD.

The venue offers us access to high quality, spacious conference facilities, with gourmet catering and extremely friendly and helpful staff. The inner city location allows for a vast range of accommodation options for delegates, as well as easy transport access via the airport rail link to St James Station. The CBD location acts as a hub to all of Sydney's attractions for overseas and interstate visitors to enjoy.

Last year we reached new heights in attendance, 260 delegates registering over the three days. We are committed to continually grow this event over the coming years. Our goal for 2019 is to reach 300 delegates to celebrate our 30th Anniversary. To achieve this, we will continue to feature innovative invited speakers, peer reviewed oral and poster presentations, student recognition, as well as providing opportunities for our delegates to network and communicate by offering a lively social program.

We look forward to seeing you all next year... Make sure you save the dates and start writing your papers :

Sunday 17th Feb – Wednesday 20th Feb, 2019
